GETS NEW THREAT IN BOMBING

NEW YORK HAS 2 HOUR EDGE ON CHICAGO IN MAIL

Difference in Service Shown in Survey.

[This is the second article of a series, covering The Tribune's findings in a survey of the postal service. Today's study is concerned with mail transmission between Chicago and New York. Others will report on the service to the west, south, and east.]

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

New York business men have a two hour advantage over Chicagoans in late afternoon mailing, it is shown by THE TRIBUNE'S national postal survey, just completed.

Straight first class mail postmarked as late as 4 p. m. in New York was delivered here the following afternoon. Chicagoans, however, had to post their letters in time to have them postmarked by 2 p. m. to assure delivery the next day. Chicago mail postmarked after 2 p. m. did not reach its destination until forenoon of the second day.

The test also indicated that the swiftest straight mail service from here to New York is approximately seven hours slower than that from New York to this city. A possible clew to the mystery was seen in the more regular mail collections in New York, as shown by records of the tests.

Train Service Is the Same.

Rail service between the two cities —train speeds and departure times— is practically the same.

In addition to straight first class mail, THE TRIBUNE'S survey was concerned with special delivery service, airmail, and special delivery airmail. For the New York test, one letter in each classification was dropped into the mail chute at Tribune Tower each hour for eight hours, beginning at 10 a. m. This was on a regular business day, one when flying conditions were reported to be excellent.

In each of the letters was a notation of the type service utilized and the time of mailing. As they reached THE TRIBUNE'S bureau in Times Square, New York, they were time stamped. On the day following, the New York staff mailed thirty-two similar letters to Tribune Tower. The same routine was followed.

In computing the time elapsed between mailing and delivery, it was necessary to consider that New York observes eastern daylight time, which is an hour ahead of Chicago daylight time. One hour, therefore, was subtracted from the elapsed time of eastbound mail and one hour was added to that of westbound letters. Following are tables showing result of the straight first class mail tests:

CHICAGO TO NEW YORK.

Mailed.	Postmarked.	Delivered.	Elapsed time.
10:00 a.	1:00 p.	4:40 p.	29 h 40 m
11:00 a.	1:00 p.	4:50 p.	28 h 50 m
12:00 N.	2:00 p.	4:40 p.	27 h 40 m
1:00 p.	4:30 p.	6:30 a.	40 h 30 m
2:00 p.	4:30 p.	5:02 a.	38 h 2 m

NEW YORK TO CHICAGO.

10:00 a.	11:00 a.	10:30 a.	23 h 30 m
11:00 a.	12:30 p.	10:30 a.	24 h 30 m
12:00 N.	1:30 p.	10:30 a.	23 h 30 m
1:00 p.	2:30 p.	10:30 a.	22 h 30 m
2:00 p.	3:30 p.	10:30 a.	21 h 30 m
3:00 p.	4:00 p.	10:30 a.	20 h 30 m
4:00 p.	5:30 p.	7:30 a.	40 h 30 m
5:00 p.	5:30 p.	7:30 a.	39 h 30 m

It will be noted that the best time between the two cities [20 hours 30 minutes] was made by the letter postmarked in New York at 4 p. m. The record east bound [27 hours 40 minutes] was set by the Chicago letter postmarked at 2 p. m. The regularity of the New York pickup system also is shown. The Chicago 10 a. m. letter lay until 1 p. m. New York's 10 a. m. mail was collected at 11 a. m.

Average Distance 976 Miles.

The rail distance between the two cities was calculated by averaging the miles traveled by the five principal roads carrying mail. The distances ranged from 908 miles for the Pennsylvania railroad to 1,002 for the Grand Trunk. The figure reached was 976 miles. The best theoretical speed made during the elapsed time was about 48 miles an hour, from New York to Chicago. The slowest time was about 24 miles an hour, both east and west bound.

In the special delivery test it was a letter postmarked in New York at 4 p. m. that made the shortest trip

SOX, CUBS SPLIT; NELSON, WOOD TIE IN GOLF PLAYOFF

The Cubs defeated the Bees, 5 to 3, in the second game of a doubleheader in Boston yesterday after losing the first, 4 to 3. Dizzy Dean was driven from the mound in the second inning of the second game. The White Sox beat the Red Sox in Comiskey park, 7 to 5, on a home run by Joe Kuhel in the ninth inning, then lost the second game of a doubleheader, 4 to 3.

Byron Nelson and Craig Wood tied with 18 hole scores of 68 in a three way playoff for the national open golf championship in Philadelphia. Denny Shute had 76. Nelson and Wood will meet again today.

The American polo team defeated Great Britain in the second and deciding match of the International cup series at Westbury, N. Y., 9 to 4.

BAKERY OWNER WARNED AFTER SON'S MURDER

Quiz Labor Chief; Denies Guilt.

Map locates scene of bomb terrorism.

Young Lee was blown to death early yesterday by a dynamite charge when he attempted to start his automobile. The explosive had been placed under the dash of his car and was set off when he turned on the ignition key.

Union Chief Questioned.

"Tell your husband he's next," Mrs. Knudson was warned when she answered the telephone about 9 o'clock this morning. Police Chief A. J. O'Laughlin would not say whether he had been able to trace the call.

Sherif Rosco Brown is holding Roland Tougas, head of the A. F. of L. bakers' union, in the Clay county jail for questioning about the dynamite killing. Tougas has denied having made any threats against young Lee or his father, John Lee.

Tougas was in trouble once before over the Northwest bakery. A few days after a strike was called in December, 1937, he led five men into the bakery and threatened Milton Lee and a girl employé. The six were arrested for unlawful assembly and for making threats. All paid fines as an alternative to jail sentences.

A few days later five men forced their way into the home of Otto Grondahl, a bakery employé who had refused to march in the picket line, and beat him. They left after threatening further injury.

Two Theories Advanced.

Lee says he believes he knows who is responsible for killing his son. He blames labor organizers. Police doubt this theory and believe a disgruntled former employé of the bakery may be back of the crime.

Young Lee, 28 years old and a graduate of the University of North Dakota, enjoyed a fine reputation in the community. He was engaged to marry Miss Marjory Lamb and had no rival for her affections.

The fatal dynamite charge was so powerful that it wrecked young Lee's automobile and the three-car garage in which it was parked.

The car had been driven into the garage early Friday evening by Miss Lamb.

Lee's father arose at 5 o'clock yesterday morning and went to his bakery. He did not notice any evidence that the garage had been entered during the night.

A card found in the wrecked garage bore this threat: "This is your warning, Lee, to watch your sales—or else." The card contained a tack hole, indicating it had been fastened inside the car.

Trouble Covers Year and Half.

Labor trouble started in the Northwest bakery eighteen months ago, after the elder Lee discharged a baker. At that time he had a contract with the A. F. of L. covering ten bakers. James Nugent, the discharged employé, was denied support by his union. He enlisted the aid of radical Fargo and Moorhead truck drivers, who picketed the bakery.

When the pickets appeared in front of the bakery, the union bakers refused to pass the line to work. The elder Lee held that the bakers had broken their contract and he hired nonunion men. Since that time he has refused to hire union men or to deal with union organizers.

NAZI SAYS KING IS USED TO BOOST THIRD TERM BID

BERLIN, June 11.—The first attempt at appraisal of the political implications of the British royal visit to America as seen through German eyes is made in today's Muenchener Neueste Nachrichten by Giselher Wirsing, its editor-in-chief.

Wirsing propounds the thesis that the royal visit was conceived while President Roosevelt still felt himself master of the "democratic world bloc," and as "democratic world reformer No. 1 was trying to plunge the world into war in order to capture a third term for himself."

Calls Peace Plea Failure.

But Wirsing says the visit actually is occurring at a time when Great Britain has recaptured her active rôle in world affairs and the United States has returned to a more passive attitude.

This change, Wirsing argues, was brought about by the effect of Adolf Hitler's answer to Mr. Roosevelt's peace message to the Fuehrer and Premier Mussolini "which made that message Roosevelt's greatest failure even at home." The editor says the message impaired Mr. Roosevelt's third term chances by precipitating a split in the Democratic party led by "Cactus Jack" Garner.

Because of that Wirsing predicts that "despite Roosevelt's impaired health—which seems to be a consequence of the terrible Washington climate—it must be assumed Roosevelt will try a last coup in order to be able to present himself in 1940 after all.

Await Another Message.

"If this last coup fails, he will withdraw, but for the present we can count on it that in the next few months the White House will try once more at a favorable opportunity to recapture the leadership in world affairs. Further telegrams from him will be gladly accepted and answered."

As a result of this and his analysis of the American domestic situation, Wirsing voiced the opinion that the royal tour of America now is the "most important link in the whole chain of measures whereby Britain attempted during the last few years to tie America more firmly to British destinies."

Britain, he insists, has a network of organizations in the United States which aim at a British-American alliance. Among these organizations he lists the Foreign Policy association and the Carnegie Foundation.

KING AND QUEEN END U. S. VISIT; OFF TO CANADA

Roosevelt Urged to Visit England.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Royal Pilot Train Enroute to Canada, June 11.—[Special.]—The King and Queen of England, after four days of feverish activity before the American public, were headed back toward the Canadian border tonight. They will sail from Halifax for England next Thursday.

The royal couple boarded their special train shortly after 10 p. m. [Chicago time] at the small Hyde Park, N. Y., station to which they drove from the estate of President Roosevelt. The President, his mother, Mrs Sara Roosevelt, Mrs. James Roosevelt Sr., and the President's wife accompanied the royal couple to the train and bade them farewell.

Eager to Visit England.

The king is understood to have pressed informally upon the President an invitation to return the visit by journeying to London this year or next. Mr. Roosevelt is reported to have expressed an eagerness to accept and a formal invitation will be extended through official channels. The President's acceptance, it was said, depends upon conditions both here and abroad.

Just before they left for their train the king and queen entered the Roosevelt library bearing packages in their arms and grinning broadly. They handed autographed photographs to the President, his mother, and Mrs. Roosevelt. The king also presented a gold ink well to Mr. Roosevelt. Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada gave the President a silver bowl.

The king and queen also passed out autographed photographs to members of the President's party. The President and Mrs. Roosevelt had presented their autographed photographs to the king and queen at the White House Friday.

King and President Swim.

During their final day in the United States, the king and queen engaged in an odd assortment of activities. They went to church, they munched hot dogs and sipped beer at a picnic, and attended a formal dinner. The king and the President went swimming together.

Their Britannic majesties pronounced the famous American delicacy delicious and asked for second helpings, smearing the frankfurters with mustard in the approved manner. The queen made merely a pretense of drinking beer, but King George VI. quaffed a succession of flagons.

Guests at the dinner were: Prime Minister King of Canada and Mrs. King, Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, and Lady Lindsay; Lady Nunburnholme and Lady Katherine Seymour, ladies in waiting to the queen; Surgeon Captain Henry White, R. N.; Mr. George Steward, royal press agent; Capt. Michael Adean, Lieut. Col. Piers W. Legh, and Dr. H. E. Coleman.

American Guests at Dinner.

American guests were White House Secretary Stephen T. Early, Brig. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, military aid to the President; Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, American military aid to the king; Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntyre, White House physician; Miss Marguerite Lehand, personal secretary to the President; Mrs. Tracy Dows, aunt of the President, and Mrs. Laura Delano, another relative.

In the morning the royal couple attended services at St. James Episcopal church in Hyde Park where they heard a twenty-five minute sermon from the Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States, in which several references were made to the presence of royal guests.

It's Formal Picnic.

The picnic was on the formal side, compared with the affairs which the Roosevelts usually present. There were no games, no playing of "musical squat," a diversion in which the guests scramble for cushions on the lawn to the accompaniment of phonograph records. Instead, there was a program of American Indian music and folklore given by Princesses Te Ata and Ish-Ti-Opi of the Chickasaw tribe.

CLOSER TIES SEEN

LONDON, June 12 [Monday].—The London Times today in an editorial on the visit of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain to the United States says: "Not the least among the results of the visit is that it has helped Americans to realize more clearly what the king and queen mean to the British people and what they represent in our national life.

"No subject of the king can fail to be touched by the open-hearted way in which the American people have received him and his consort. The three days which they spent on American soil have brought the two countries even closer together than they were before. They have widened and deepened their understanding of one another and their mutual sympathy."

INSIDE STORY OF TOUR

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 11.—[Special.]—Now it can be told.

The visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth of England to Canada and the United States was projected deliberately by the British government to stage Britain's challenge to the dictators.

It was deemed a safe gamble that the royal progress would elicit so enthusiastic a welcome in both countries as to impress Hitler and Mussolini with the solidarity of the English

HOT DOGS 'BARK' UP SOCIAL LADDER AFTER ROYALTY O. K.'S THEM

New York, June 11.—(AP)—The social climb of the hot dog was seized upon immediately today by waggish vendors of that item in its traditional home. While the king and queen of England were having their first—with mustard—as picnic guests of President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, Coney Island hot dog merchants ran up signs saying:

"By special appointment to his majesty the king."

Poisoned Wine Fells Jap and Chinese Chiefs

SHANGHAI, June 11.—(AP)—Japanese reported tonight twenty high Japanese and Chinese officials of the Nanking reformed government were ill in the former Chinese capital from drinking wine allegedly poisoned in "a daring attempt of Chinese enemies of the new régime at wholesale killing of the officialdom."

They asserted the attempt occurred last night at the Japanese consulate general when Japanese officials entertained Tamesaburo Shimizu, parliamentary vice minister of foreign affairs in Tokio, at a banquet.

The wine was reported to have brought a speedy end to what had been planned as a gala evening.

No Fatal Effects.

"Immediately following the drinking of the initial toast to the guest of honor," a Japanese report said, "the entire assemblage was stricken. Japanese civilian and military physicians checked the effects of the poison before it had a chance to have fatal effects."

It added that "the brains behind the outrage still were at large although Nanking is being scoured" for those responsible.

Japanese reports from Tientsin meanwhile said, "a tense calm before the storm" prevailed in the North China port where the British concession has been threatened with isolation unless four Chinese there were surrendered to the Japanese.

Strong Action Planned.

Japanese said "the isolating process" was due to start in a few days, but so far there has been no effort to carry out a reported forty-eight hour ultimatum which expired last Saturday for turning over the Chinese refugees.

Japanese military officials here declined to confirm that an ultimatum had been issued but one asserted "strong action" was in prospect unless Britain met Japanese desires.

On the military side, there have been few changes in the last few days in the Chinese-Japanese war.

In Shantung province, where heavy reinforcements were landed at Tsingtao, the Japanese said they were carrying out a sharp offensive inland against stiff resistance.

In one area of central Shantung the Japanese reported their troops had surrounded 40,000 Chinese soldiers.

UNABLE TO SWIM, MAN WAITS IN WATER NECK DEEP FOR SEVEN HOURS

Randolph, Vt., June 11.—(AP)—A man who stood in water up to his neck for seven hours after a fishing accident, because he was unable to swim, told today of his rescue. Benjamin Allen, 52 years old, said he slipped into a hole late yesterday while casting in White River, and, on bobbing to the surface, grasped a protruding rock, his feet barely touching a ledge several feet below the surface. His son-in-law, Mendell Barnes, found him shortly before midnight and pulled him to safety with an automobile chain.

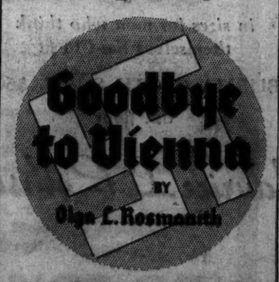
President's Name Will Go Down in History on a Fish

Washington, D. C., June 11.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's name will be given to a number of newly discovered members of the fish, crab, and worm family. The specimens were procured by scientists accompanying the President on a cruise to Pacific waters last July. Among the names they have decided on are "Thalamita Roosevelti," crustaceans; "Pycnomma Roosevelti," a fish, and "Terebra, Conus, Marginella and Peasiella Roosevelti," members of the mollusk family.

Some Yawn! Throws His Shoulder Out of Socket

Philadelphia, Pa., June 11.—(AP)—An uninhibited yawn, an expansive stretch — and snap went Samuel String's shoulder. At a hospital, where physicians gave him anesthesia before resetting the joint, he explained: "I read somewhere you should stretch before you get up."

Starting today—



A thrilling romance of an American girl and her Viennese sweetheart the story of a beautiful dream which became a nightmare when the Storm Troopers started rolling into Austria. Starting today on Page 16.

Air Passenger Hops to Europe Start June 28

New York, June 11.—(AP)—The public can begin buying air passages to Europe June 28. Pan American Airways announced today the world's first passenger service over the Atlantic will be started then.

Just who will be carried on the first flight, out of the hundreds who have applied for tickets, was not specified.

The cost will be $375 one way and $675 for a round trip. The one way fare compares with $316 for a first class ticket in the liners Queen Mary and Normandie.

The elapsed time between the United States and Marseilles, France, will be 44 hours. Temporarily, an overnight stop will be made at Lisbon, Portugal. Airliners leaving the company's base at Port Washington, N. Y., will touch first at Horta, the Azores. The elapsed time to Lisbon will be 22 hours.

Fly Northern Route Later.

While passenger service on the southern route over the North Atlantic is being inaugurated, other company flying boats will have initiated the northern route via Shediac N. B., Botwood, Newfoundland, and Foynes, Ireland, to Southampton.

The great circle course to Europe, over which the first mail plane will fly June 24, is the shorter of the two routes, but is impracticable for use except during the summer months due to unfavorable weather conditions. New York will be only 24½ hours from London on the northern course.

With the start of passenger service in the company's 41½ ton Clipper flying boats, a schedule of two round trips a week will be instituted. The passenger plane will leave Port Washington every Wednesday and the mail plane every Saturday.

Leave France Each Sunday.

The passenger Clipper will leave Marseilles each Sunday and arrive in Port Washington Tuesday morning, with an overnight stop in Lisbon. The mail Clipper will leave Southampton each Wednesday and arrive here Thursday afternoon.

The company has on file with the civil aeronautics authority a request for permission to start a service of four round trips a week. It began scheduled service, carrying mail only, across the Atlantic May 20.

The overnight stop in Lisbon is necessary at present because permission has yet to be obtained from the Spanish government to fly over Spain, and from French authorities for night landings at Marseilles.

has just been completed. Perched on the top of a hill a few miles from the Roosevelt family home, the cottage commands an inspiring view of the Hudson river valley. There were cooling breezes. Perfect June weather prevailed throughout the day.

The President, Queen Elizabeth, Mrs. Lehman, the wife of Gov. Lehman of New York, and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. sat at one table. At another, the king, Mrs. James Roosevelt Sr., the President's mother; Gov. Herbert Lehman, and Mrs. Morgenthau, chatted together.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador; Mrs. Tucker, wife of Bishop Tucker; Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada, and Mrs. Vincent Astor were at a third table. A fourth held Lady Lindsay, Bishop Tucker, Mrs. Price Collier, and Gerald Morgan.

Neighbors View Royalty.

On the lawn in front of the cottage, some 150 friends and neighbors of the Roosevelt's were provided with chairs from which they might view royalty at a distance and listen to the entertainment. They filed past the royal couple late in the afternoon and many shook hands with them. Food was served on paper plates and included, in addition to the hot dogs and beer, cold baked ham, smoked turkey, tomato salad, iced tea and coffee and soft drinks.

The servants who waited upon the guests also were presented to their majesties amid gasps from the king and queen's entourage. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, the President's wife, was not seated at one of the tables, circulating back and forth in attendance upon her guests.

Wears Single Gardenia.

The queen wore a challis print gown with a gray background, a gray straw hat with high crown and small brim, and a bunch of gay flowers in front of the crown. She wore gray slippers and stockings. Her flower was a single gardenia.

The king wore a brown sports suit with a bright four-in-hand tie. The President had on a gray lounge suit and tie. Mrs. Roosevelt wore a cotton sports two-piece suit of old rose with white stripes.

The President acted as chauffeur for the king and queen on the ride to the picnic grounds. The car he uses is a touring model equipped with manual controls.

King Takes Dip in Pool.

The king and President Roosevelt doffed their clothes, slipped into swimming trunks, and took a cool dip in the outdoor swimming pool at Val Kill cottage owned by Miss Nancy Cook, friend of Mrs. Roosevelt, which was visited after the picnic. Then the party returned to the Roosevelt estate, where a formal dinner was served.

For fifteen minutes the heads of the two largest English speaking nations paddled about in the small pool which is forty feet in length by twenty in breadth. James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President; his wife, Betsy, and their little daughter, Sara, also enjoyed a plunge.

Their majesties were driven through a countryside reminiscent of their homeland on the trip to church services this morning. They saw vast estates bordering the Hudson river basking under a gentle sun and clear blue skies.

1,000 Outside Church.

On the lawn in front of the ninety-five year old ivy covered church about 1,000 persons had been permitted to congregate. These cheered as the motor car procession from the Roosevelt estate drew up. The king, the President, and Prime Minister King in the first car, and the queen and Mrs. Roosevelt Sr. in the second car. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, James Roosevelt, the President's eldest son; Betsy Roosevelt, wife of James, and Sara Roosevelt, their young daughter, were the only others to attend the services.

For church the queen wore a hyacinth blue crêpe dress with box coat, finger tip length, known as a daytime frock, a matching hat of the off-the-face type known as a halo hat, matching blue suede pumps, and beige stockings. The king wore a blue suit with a gray stripe, blue shirt, and black tie.

The party arrived promptly at 10:55 a. m. The queen, assisting the 84 year old President's mother, walked first down the aisle of the tiny church which has only 200 seats. They were followed by the king and the President, with the President's wife. These five were seated in the first pew. Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt with their daughter sat in the second pew.

Usual Simple Service.

There was no deviation from the usual simple prayers customary at the "low" church services. The king covered his face with his hands as the congregation recited the Lord's prayer and the Apostle's Creed in unison.

The Rev. Frank R. Wilson, rector of the church, relieved some of the strain visible upon the faces of the selected few who had been admitted to the church when he uttered a welcome to their majesties.

Looking over the crowded seats, he remarked:

"One sees what happens when our parishioners bring their guests to the church. If every one were to do this, we could fill the church every Sunday."

There was a ripple of laughter.

"We appreciate the historic visit which their majesties are making to this parish," continued the rector. "We are happy to add our voice to that of the mother church in commending your majesties to the grace and the protection of Almighty God."

Bishop Tucker's sermon began with the comment that representatives of one of the most powerful nations of the world were present. Such a nation, he declared, must assume a large share of the responsibility of maintaining world peace.

The king listened attentively as the bishop continued on the theme that neighborliness connoted a concern for fellow nations as well as fellow individuals.

Says Prayer for Peace.

"The word 'neighbor' is all inclusive," Bishop Tucker declared. "Sometimes in our own country, certain interests have led to extreme nationalism, race prejudice and sectional persecution."

Prayers for peace and for the President of the United States were read as a part of the services. The rector then read a special prayer for British royalty, imploring the grace of God upon "the most gracious sovereign, King George, Queen Elizabeth, the queen mother, Mary, and Princess Elizabeth, heir apparent to the British throne.

The king and queen joined in the congregational singing. When the silver collection plate was extended to them by Usher Arthur S. De Groff, all five in the first pew dropped in American paper currency.

Calls It Lovely Service.

To the lusty singing by choir and congregation of "Come Thou Almighty King," the king and queen walked down the aisle of the church and into the open where the crowd applauded them.

"It was a lovely service," the queen told Mrs. Roosevelt Sr., as they entered their car. She looked around at the spruce and elm trees, the closely clipped lawns and the tiny grave yard in the rear. "It's perfectly beautiful here," she remarked.

A 10 year old girl slipped through the police lines and jumped to the running board of the queen's car.

"Please shake hands with me," she pleaded.

The queen smiled at the girl but looked down ruefully at her gloved right hand, resting in her lap, which has been wrung by thousands of persons in the last three weeks.

"I'm afraid I've shaken hands with too many already," she said.

Gets Divorce

SARI MARITZA.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 11.—(AP)—Sari Maritza, petite film actress, has obtained her final decree of divorce from Sam Katz, film studio executive. Under a property settlement approved by a court, Katz is to pay her $1,400 a week, as long as his own income is above $3,000 a week. In addition she received $25,000 cash. They were married in 1934.

NAZI SAYS KING IS USED TO BOOST THIRD TERM BID

speaking world against their threats of aggression. This demonstration, it was calculated, would give the dictators pause in their warlike designs.

As the royal couple departed from the United States tonight, THE TRIBUNE was given authoritative information concerning the motives of the unprecedented expedition, and the intense satisfaction of the British government with the results.

Ovations Answer Dictators.

Surveying the ovations attending the appearances of the young British king and his consort during their journey through Canada and the United States, a British official said: "This is the answer to the dictators."

The reception accorded the sovereigns in both countries far exceeded the most optimistic expectations of the British statesmen who conceived the enterprise. They are confident that the demonstration will operate to postpone war in Europe for a long time.

That the manifestations of Canadian loyalty to the crown and of American good will toward Britain are not going unheeded by the dictators is suggested by the suppression of the news of the royal progress by the German and Italian newspapers except for belittling references thereto.

The British government's dispatch of the monarchs on a good will mission overseas was a bit of strategy designed to strengthen a dangerously weak link in empire defense. That weak link was Canada.

Shadows of Neutrality.

Our Lady of the Snows was not so enthusiastic in devotion to the crown as it was necessary she should be, if the empire were to present a united front to the dictators. Mackenzie King, the Canadian prime minister, even had stated in parliament that if Great Britain should become involved in war, Canada would remain neutral.

This open manifestation of aloofness from Britain's plight caused intense uneasiness in the British cabinet, an uneasiness that increased as the dictators proceeded to stress and capitalize the Canadian attitude as evidence of the approaching disintegration of the empire. Something had to be done to show the dictators they were mistaken. The obvious expedient was to send the king and queen to arouse a great demonstration of loyalty and patriotism in Canada.

Even War No Deterrent.

So desperate was the British need of presenting a show of empire unity to the dictators, according to THE TRIBUNE'S information, that nothing could have caused a cancellation of the royal expedition—not even the outbreak of war on the day of departure. Actual war would have made it only the more imperative to win the active coöperation of Canada. In view of the tremendous success of the Canadian visit, the British statesmen are confident they will hear no more of Canadian neutrality.

While the reclamation of Canada was the supreme objective, proximity made it convenient and appropriate to cultivate American good will also. Whether the suggestion originated with the President or the British foreign office is not definitely known, but Mr. Roosevelt penned with his own hand, after conferences with British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay, the invitation to the king and queen to visit the United States. It was accepted with alacrity.

The reception of the monarchs in the United States was no less cordial and enthusiastic than in Canada. The democratic, unaffected and modest demeanor of both the king and the queen and the agreeable qualities of their personalities made a tremendous hit wherever they appeared. The President put into words at the White House dinner an expression of American good will and ideals of peace and liberty common to both countries. The king responded in similar vein.

The king and queen invited the President and Mrs. Roosevelt to return their call, and it is not doubted that the President will elect to do so, if he should be convinced the gesture would cow the dictators.

It did not take the royal visit to enlist the sympathy and coöperation of the President. All along he has seen eye to eye with the British in their conflict with the dictators and has pursued what Secretary of State Cordell Hull terms a "parallel policy" to the British in dealing with threats of aggression by Japan, Germany, and Italy.

Tacit Alliance Evident.

It was the President who ordered our fleet post haste back from the Atlantic to the Pacific to stand guard against Japan while the British fleet is occupied in Europe. Further manifestations of tacit alliance of the United States with Great Britain against the dictators are pending as the king and queen depart.

The President is doing his utmost to compass repeal of the American arms embargo in order to furnish weapons to Britain and France if they should become involved in war. The administration has a majority of the house foreign affairs committee in favor of this move and strove mightily to get the bill approved by the committee as a memento to hand the king upon his arrival in Washington. But time did not permit and further consideration of the neutrality legislation was postponed until this week.

LARGEST WEST POINT CLASS—456—GETS COMMISSIONS TODAY

West Point, N. Y., June 11.—(AP)—The 456 members of the largest class ever to graduate from the United States Military academy, who will receive their diplomas and second lieutenancies tomorrow from President Roosevelt, heard their last sermons as cadets today.

Surrounded by thousands of friends and relatives who packed two chapels, the members of the class attended worship in the morning. In the afternoon, at the traditional graduation parade, they listened for the last time to the command, First class dismissed."

President Roosevelt will arrive at the academy by automobile from Hyde Park tomorrow morning at 10:30 to deliver a 1,300 word commencement address. Mrs. Roosevelt will accompany him.

CULTURED YOUNG ATHLETE IS FOUND DAZED ON STREET

Janesville, Wis., June 11.—[Special.]—Janesville police and the Rock county sheriff are wondering what to do with a young man picked up on the street here May 22. He is unable to tell his name or where he lives. He was taken to police headquarters after he was found, apparently dazed.

Amnesia victim.

The young man apologized for his condition and said he seemed to be having trouble with his memory.

Every effort to identify the man has failed. Police have been unable to learn about any missing person whose description fits him. He was well dressed in sports clothes bearing the label of M. L. Rothschild, Chicago, when found. He appears to be in his early twenties, is 6 feet 3 inches tall and weighs 190 pounds.

Exhibits Wide Talents.

The man shows culture, education and wide talents, although when asked if he can do certain things, he replies that he does not know, but is willing to try any test. He shows musical ability and sings well.

The way he handles basketballs and footballs indicates he is a trained athlete. Last week he was taken for an airplane ride. When the pilot reached a safe altitude, the passenger was told to take over controls of the plane. He flew the plane with ease.

Police asked him if he understood cards and he was uncertain. They tried him at cribbage and he won consistently.

Finger Prints Not on File.

Finger prints were sent to the federal bureau of investigation for comparison, but no matching prints were on file.

The youth is being sheltered and fed in the county jail. Authorities are considering taking him to Madison for a visit to psychiatrists in an attempt to arouse his memory, unless some one reads about his plight and helps establish his identity.

ASSASSINS AGAIN TRY TO KILL ARAB MAYOR IN HOLY LAND STRIFE

JERUSALEM, June 11.—(AP)—Raouf El Bitar, mayor of Jaffa, escaped a third attempt to assassinate him today in a new flareup of Arab-Jewish strife which took three lives in the Holy Land. Assailants fired on the mayor and his escort as they were walking through the Jaffa market. The escort returned the fire and killed one of the attackers.

Bitar is a prominent member of the moderate Nashashibi party which recently accepted Britain's proposed new policy to make the Holy Land an independent state with an Arab majority. The Nashashibi stand is in opposition to that of anti-British followers of the exiled Grand Mufti of Jerusalem.

A British constable was killed and eight persons, including two Arab clerks, were injured by the third bomb to explode within twelve hours in the Jerusalem general post office. A Jewish gravedigger was killed and another saved himself by jumping into an open grave when they were fired on by four Arabs on the Mount of Olives.

BUYERS SWAMP WISCONSIN CUT RATE MILK SALE

Farmers Laud Producer's Price Law Defi.

Manitowoc, Wis., June 11. — [Special.] — Since Joseph Lemberger announced last week that he would defy state price fixing laws and sell milk on his farm for 5 cents a quart and 19 cents a gallon he has been swamped with customers. Lemberger lives on a farm near the village of Mishicot, thirteen miles north of Manitowoc. The state has fixed a minimum price of 10 cents a quart for milk here.

Customers for the 5 cent milk, most of whom buy by the gallon, are drawn largely from Mishicot and Two Rivers, five miles away. Lemberger said today that most customers have told him they would double their milk consumption if the price remained at 19 cents a gallon.

Lemberger said he had letters from many farmers who commended him for his defiance of the Wisconsin milk price fixing by the state department of agriculture and markets. Other farmers in his neighborhood have told Lemberger they plan to follow his example.

Second to Defy Price Fixing.

Lemberger is the second milk producer to defy prosecution by the state bureau for milk price cutting. Ten days ago William Rohan of Kaukauna announced he was getting ready to sell milk on his farm for 4 cents a quart or at any price which suited him. He challenged the state department to stop him from selling milk at his price on his farm.

Rohan is a former Democratic member of the legislature. His decision to start selling milk for 4 cents was caused by a declining market which forces farmers to sell their excess above the demand for home consumption to cheese factories for what amounts to about 2 cents a quart.

Rohan's decision to sell milk on his farm for four cents last week caused Senator W. A. Freehoff [R., Waukesha] to offer an amendment to his milk control bill, which is pending in the legislature. The bill has been reported out of committee and placed on the senate calendar, but will not be reached for two or three weeks. An identical house bill by Representative Alfred Ludvigsen [R., Hartland] also has been reported out of committee and recommended for passage.

Amendment Eases Farm Sales.

Freehoff's amendment would permit farmers to sell milk on their own property at any price they desired, but the farmer would have to live outside any incorporated area where prices were fixed. The amendment specifically bars commercial operators from selling milk at roadside stands for less than the fixed price and says the farmer who sells for less must be selling milk produced on his farm.

The Freehoff bill as first drawn virtually copies the present emergency law which was passed first in 1933 and extended for two year periods until now. It will expire at the close of 1939. The bill permits the state department of markets to fix the price to be paid to the farmer for fluid milk and to fix the price at which milk may be sold at retail in various communities. Wide discretion is left to the bureau.

So far the market bureau has made no attempt to prosecute the farmers who sell milk at less than the fixed price on their farms. However, the attitude of the bureau is that so long as the law is in effect it has no choice.

TWO KILLED WHEN PLANE CRASHES IN TRUCK PATCH

Air Tragedy Viewed by Kenosha Golfers.

Kenosha, Wis., June 11.—[Special.] —Two Racine men were killed this evening when their plane crashed into a cabbage field adjacent to the Kenosha Country club, seven miles north of Kenosha and two miles west of Highway 42.

The victims were Magnus Jacobson, 35 years old, a carpenter contractor, who was piloting the ship, and Richard D. Kidder, 19, his passenger, who was graduated last week from the University of South Carolina.

The ship was a low wing monoplane belonging to Gilbert Jackson, Racine Flying instructor. The ship was seen in difficulty above the Kenosha Country club by Dr. Theodore Sokow and his son, John, who were on the golf course. Dr. Sokow said the ship dropped from about 600 feet to 300 feet, zoomed up to 400 feet, and then dived nose first to the ground.

Sisters Die in Fall.

Montague, Mass., June 11.—(AP)—A sightseeing trip above the Connecticut river ended today in the death of four persons, including a woman, when the plane in which they were flying lost a wing and plunged 1,500 feet into a wooded area near a fish hatchery.

The dead, all of Greenfield, were Lester Hodgen, 31 years old, pilot and an assistant funeral director; Miss Katherine Walsh, 27; Donald Drew, 22, a drug store employé, and Howard Glazier, a motion picture film operator.

Witnesses said a wing fell off when the plane banked as though to head back to nearby Turners Falls airport, from which it had taken off a few minutes earlier.

7 KILLED IN 3 TRAFIC CRASHES NEAR RACINE, WIS.

2 of Victims Chicagoans; One from Evanston.

Seven persons were killed yesterday in three trafic accidents near Racine, Wis. Two of the victims were Chicagoans and one was from Evanston.

The Chicagoans were Miss Lucile Catalano, 17 years old, 2151 North Racine avenue, and Carol Wasikowski, 18 months old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wasikowski, 2435 North Spaulding avenue. The third victim from the Chicago area was Miss Shirley Hale, 16, of 1909 Grant street, Evanston, a junior in the Evanston Township High school.

Miss Catalano and Miss Hale were week-end guests of Miss Sarah MacMurray, 18, a senior in the Evanston Township High school, at her parents' summer home near Burlington, Wis. Miss MacMurray is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William MacMurray, 1920 Harrison street, Evanston.

One of Companions Killed.

The three girls were riding with some boys from Burlington when the car skidded into a pole and overturned 14 miles west of Racine on Wisconsin route 11 and Racine county trunk J. Leonard Bucholtz, 20, one of their companions, was killed, and Miss MacMurray was injured severely.

The Wasikowski baby was riding with her parents when their car collided with another automobile seven miles west of Racine at the intersection of U. S. 41 and Wisconsin 20. Three relatives of the Wasikowski family were injured.

The most spectacular of the three accidents was one in which three young people from Racine, riding on a motorcycle, were killed.

Cycle Hits Guard Rail.

The motorcycle struck a guard rail on a curve four and one-half miles north of Racine on Wisconsin route 20 and bumped them along the rail for almost 100 yards, tearing off most of their clothing.

Those killed in the motorcycle accident were Miss Dorothy Hanson, 19 years old, of 1112 Nelson court, Racine; Leonard Brill, 29, of 2507 Douglas avenue, Racine, and Landry M. Schilling, 28, of 1503 South Wisconsin street, Racine.

Fourteen persons were injured in two accidents closer to Chicago—one in Niles and the other south of La Grange. Five of these were injured seriously.

Woman Killed in Race.

Mrs. Betty Rapp, 31, of 1407 West 56th street, was killed when the automobile in which she was riding struck a railroad abutment at the edge of Aurora's business district. The driver, Anthony Espasito, 30, of 2430 South Artesian avenue, was injured. Police were told that Espasito, while returning from a tavern, was racing another automobile. He was charged with manslaughter.

Mrs. Clara Reese, 70 years old, 864 North Oakwood avenue, Lake Forest, died early today in her home several hours after she had been shaken up in an automobile accident at Buckley and Skokie roads, west of North Chicago. Her husband, Andrew, a tinsmith, was with her. She did not appear to be injured at the time. Police believe her death was caused by shock rather than injury.

An inquest will be held today over Swerve Broten, 44, who was found dead yesterday in the street in front of a tavern at 633 North Cicero avenue, where he worked as a bartender. Police believe he was struck by a hit-and-run automobile.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 361 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 283 were killed in Chicago, where 8,880 were injured in the same period.

UNCOVER ANCIENT FACTORY CENTER OF KING SOLOMON

New Haven, Conn., June 11.—(AP)—The site of wise King Solomon's great factory town of Ezion Geber on the Red sea—"the Pittsburgh of Palestine"—has been uncovered in excavations just completed by Nelson Glueck, director of the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem, Yale university announced today.

Site of Ancient Ezion-Geber

Many buildings in the vast smelting center, believed to have been constructed at one time from a preconceived and carefully worked out plan, were air conditioned for heat and contained an elaborate system of flues and air channels that permitted utilization of strong north winds as natural blasts.

Solomon is believed to have constructed Ezion-Geber in the tenth century before Christ with the aid of thousands of laborers who probably, for the most part, were slaves. The place was fortified with a huge wall which at the top measured from 7½ to 9 feet through and at the base—set two to three feet beneath the ground—up to 12 feet through.

"There was, so far as we know, only one man who possessed the strength and wisdom capable of initiating and carrying out the construction of a highly complex and specialized site, such as the factory town of Ezion-Geber in its first and greatest period," said the report of Director Glueck. "He was King Solomon."

"The wise ruler of Israel was a copper king, shipping magnate, a merchant prince, a great builder," Glueck said in his statement.

Glueck explained that the smelters and refineries of Ezion-Geber, located a comparatively long distance from Jerusalem, provided King Solomon with finished ore products which he exchanged for spices, ivory, gold and precious woods from Arabia, Africa, and India.

In constructing the town, Solomon used thousands of sun-dried bricks which in themselves were of such quality that 3,000 years later some of the walls still stand almost to their original height.

POLICEMAN SEES WASHOUT; FLAGS TRAIN FROM LOOP

Flossmoor Hero Saves Scores in Rainstorm.

The heroism and quick wit of a Flossmoor policeman was disclosed yesterday in the wake of a week-end of heavy rain. The policeman, Harry Sundeen, prevented a heavily laden Illinois Central railroad suburban train from being wrecked at a washout.

During the height of a storm late Saturday, Sundeen was patroling in a squad car. He found the railroad viaducts at 183d street and Flossmoor road were flooded, so he drove to the Vollmer road viaduct, near the southern village limits, to see if traffic could be rerouted.

Finds Track Dangling in Air.

There Sundeen found a section of the southbound track dangling in air at the southern approach to the viaduct. Torrents of water had washed out all the fill-up to the edge of the viaduct. The two steel rails, with fifteen railway ties suspended from them, bridged the deep gap. There was nothing between the ties ande the street, twenty feet below.

Sundeen dashed into a nearby utility office. He instructed the telephone operator to notify the railroad immediately so that trains from the loop could be rerouted over a single track at Homewood.

Train Due; No Time to Phone!

Then he looked at his watch. It was just 5:40 p. m., the hour at which a train from the loop was due at the Flossmoor station. There was no time to telephone.

Sundeen dashed back to the track. With the rain beating in his face he sped north along the ties, waving his arm. Three hundred yards from the washout the engineer of the oncoming Matteson special saw the policeman and stopped his six car train.

The train was backed into Homewood and rerouted. A single track was used for three hours until a railroad repair crew succeeded in filling in the washout.

Rainfall Exceeds Two Inches.

The southern end of the county got the heaviest dose of rain over the week-end, although the deluge was general. Scores of basements were flooded. At Flossmoor an unofficial gauge recorded 2.49 inches during the storm Saturday.

In Chicago, the rainfall measured 2.09 inches in the 24 hours ending at 6:30 a. m. yesterday. This was the heaviest since 2.69 inches on Sept. 11 and 12, 1936. For the twenty-four hours ended at 7:30 p. m. yesterday 1.03 inches of rain fell in Chicago. Since June 1 rainfall has totaled 3.53 inches. Normal is 1.29 inches for the first eleven days of June. This year's total is .22 of an inch above the normal for the entire month.

Windsqualls yesterday disabled two sloops, the Sawbones and the Skip It, which were competing in a Jackson Park Yacht club race. None was injured. Coast guardsmen towed the boats ashore.

Storm Strikes George Ade's Farm

SIX DEAD, 50 HURT IN STORMS; BIG PROPERTY LOSS

Many Homes Wrecked in Midwest.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 11.—(AP)—Indiana counted today three dead, Ohio two, and Wisconsin one in the wake of June storms which slashed through six midwestern states, injuring more than fifty persons and causing hundreds of thousands of dollars in property damage.

The high wind, rain, and lightning swept across this state, and parts of Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Kentucky last night. Houses were destroyed, utility services disrupted, and hundreds of trees were blown down. The six victims were:

MARTEL BRILES, 8, killed near Swayzee when an automobile carrying ten persons through the rain ran into a tree felled across a road.

GERALD W. BROWN, 26, crushed to death at Schneider as an implement supply house was blown down.

CHARLES WEISS, 59, farmer, injured fatally near Logansport when a truck traveling through a heavy rain knocked him from his bicycle.

JUDITH DONNA PIKE, 19 months, killed at Beloit, Wis., when her jugular vein was cut by flying glass as a small garage was blown against a house.

MRS. MARY METZ, killed at Hicksville, O., when the wind blew a tree across her automobile.

Coast Guard Rescues 50.

Jacksonville was hit hardest in Illinois. More than 200 homes were damaged at an estimated loss of $100,000.

Utilities were crippled and buildings damaged at Adrian and other southern Michigan cities.

Many sections of Louisville, Ky., and surrounding communities were without electric service as the storm hit there. More than an inch of rain fell in Louisville and Indianapolis.

Twenty Hurt in Indiana.

More than a score of persons were injured in Indiana. The storm hit hardest along a twelve mile path from Sheldon, Ill., through Kentland, Goodland, Remington, Wolcott, and to the northeast. A Kentland newspaper man estimated damage at $50,000 in three counties.

State Policeman Bernard D. Leavitt reported he saw a funnel-shaped cloud characteristic of a tornado, moving northeastward near Wolcott.

Ten houses were flattened near Brook. Fallen trees blocked highway trafic in nearly every section of the state. A new hangar and seven airplanes were wrecked at the Valparaiso airport.

London's First Rain in 24 Days Smashes Heat Wave

LONDON, June 11.—(AP)—London's first rain in 24 days fell today as Prime Minister Chamberlain returned from a week-end at Birmingham without his usual umbrella. Besides easing the drouth, the shower broke Britain's June heat wave which had Londoners complaining of temperatures in the 80's.

ROBS BUS OFFICE TWICE.

MINISTER LISTS 10 SUGGESTIONS FOR U. S. DADS

Cites Need of Example in Father's Day Talks.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Attention to observance of Father's day next Sunday was called in two sermons yesterday by the Rev. Adalbert R. Kretzmann, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church, Belmont and Greenview avenues. He outlined ten suggestions for fathers at a morning service. Late yesterday in Valparaiso, Ind., he reiterated his views before a national meeting of the Lutheran Laymen's league.

He said that children of today have the most obedient fathers the world ever has seen and urged that fathers become individuals, not a part of the "new barbarism" under the control of herd opinions.

"If our children are to be individuals," said the Rev. Mr. Kretzmann, "they must demand that their fathers stand aside from the conspiracy of hate which mars labor, politics, and international negotiations of our day. Fathers must not run with the pack—they must be strong individuals.

Worthy of Token of Memory.

"It is a significant service that the commercial world reminds us in newspapers through skill in layout and commercial art that father is worthy of a token of memory."

Mr. Kretzmann's ten suggestions for fathers follow:

1. Our children will hardly love truth if their fathers love lying more.
2. Our children will hardly find religion because their fathers lost it.
3. Our children will hardly seek peace and love when our example shows them hate and prejudice.
4. Our children will hardly learn meekness and humility if they find their fathers arrogant and proud.
5. Our children will hardly esteem the spiritual when they find their fathers sensual and earthbound.
6. Our children will hardly love and honor womanhood unless they find honest affection for their mothers by their fathers.

Marriage Vows Cited.

7. Our children will hardly venerate their marriage vows unless those vows are esteemed by their fathers.
8. Our children will hardly condemn sin unless it is condemned in their fathers' lives.
9. Our children will hardly bring the tranquility of order and peace into a harried world unless they find their fathers building peace and tranquility into their homes.
10. Our children will hardly learn to love their enemies, revere God, and trust their Savior when they find their fathers despising their foes, forgetting God, and depending on good deeds for a place in heaven.

TURN COAL MINE WASTE INTO NEW SMOKELESS FUEL

Briquets Perfected by State Are Shown.

A new type of smokeless fuel, made from the slack coal wastes which are largely unmarketable and which accumulate in hundred thousand ton piles at Illinois mines, was on exhibit yesterday at the annual exposition of the American Retail Coal association in the Hotel Sherman.

The new fuel, in the form of briquets, is the product of eight years of research by scientists of the Illinois state geological survey. The fuel still is in an experimental stage. However, geological survey experts expect the briquets to be manufactured on a commercial scale within a year or two.

Seek State Appropriation.

A bill asking an appropriation of $300,000 to enable the survey department to carry out this venture into the commercial field now is pending before the state legislature at Springfield, according to M. M. Leighton, state geologist in charge of the coal research.

"There is a special need for a cheap, smokeless, domestic fuel, particularly in the middle west," Leighton explained. "Estimates based upon a recent survey made in Chicago are that the smoke produced by the furnaces of domestic consumers in the city since 1911 has increased ninefold for 302,000 homes and four flat apartments, and sixteenfold for 16,000 six flat or larger apartments. At present, according to this report, 63 per cent of the smoke in Chicago is produced by the domestic furnace, notwithstanding the fact that it consumes only 49 per cent of the coal."

Leighton said a large percentage of the coal in Illinois breaks down during the mining process into small, almost powdery fuel which is unfit for commercial use. It is allowed to accumulate in huge piles at the mines. In many instances piles have been burned just to get rid of them.

Preheated to Dispel Smoke.

From this waste coal the smokeless fuel is made. The waste is preheated to drive off all the volatile matter which, in ordinary coal, causes the smoke, Leighton explained. Then it is pressed into small blocks, or briquets, which have the hardness of anthracite.

"Such utilization of fine coal material, in addition to ending waste of fuel resources in the state, would create a new and wide market for millions of tons of fuel that represent nearly half the production of Illinois mines," Leighton said. "The importance of this research has been made especially evident because of the threat to the Illinois coal industry resulting from smoke abatement ordinances such as the one recently put into effect in St. Louis, where approximately 3,000,000 tons of Illinois coal is used annually.

BOOST IN TAVERN LICENSE FEES UP FOR STUDY TODAY

A city council subcommittee today will consider several proposals affecting tavern operators. One measure would confine the sale of liquor to taverns and liquor stores. Another proposed measure calls for increasing license fees for taverns and other places where liquor is sold. On Wednesday the city council will take action on an amendment to extend the closing time for liquor establishments to 2 a. m. on weekdays and 3 a. m. on Sundays. The present closing hours are 1 a. m. on weekdays and 2 a. m. on Sundays. Adoption of the extended time has been recommended by the council license committee.

BARE U. S. WASTE OF MILLIONS IN NAME OF RELIEF

Over 20 Billions Spent in Last Seven Years.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 11.—[Special.]—An exposure of the wastefulness and political exploitation of relief of the unemployed was made public today by the National Economy league in a brochure entitled "Relief—America's Number One Problem."

"Three facts and one unsavory conclusion stand out from the factual study," said Ernest Angell, national chairman of the league. These facts are:

1. In seven years federal, state and local governments have spent 20 and a half billion dollars for relief—more this year than ever before.

2. Twenty-two million persons are today receiving relief payments in one form or another—still an "emergency" after seven years.

3. The overhead costs of administration and materials have arisen from 10 to 25 per cent of the total—the "emergency" is increasingly wasteful.

Situation Described as Mess.

"The conclusion is that federal relief is administered with either the wasteful incompetence of an old fashioned ice cart in summer, or with a malicious mania to spend as much of the nation's accumulated savings as possible while giving as little as may be to the heedy out of the vast total wasted. It's time that those in genuine need of relief woke up to the mess that is being perpetrated in their name."

Here is a condensed analysis of seven years of public relief. The ramifications, shifts and duplication of various types of relief with the attendant increases in costs borne by federal, state and local governments are set forth in tables and charts.

Relief Cost Trend Up.

Among the significant findings are:

1. Relief costs have not declined during periods of business improvement.

2. Over the full period, the trend of relief rolls is down; the trend of relief costs is up.

3. Relief costs have risen because of the adoption of costly forms of work relief.

4. The amount spent by all branches of government for administration and work materials increased from 128 million dollars in 1933 to over a billion dollars in 1938.

5. An analysis of unit costs of various forms of relief shows excessive cost of WPA as a form of relief.

Covers Family Deficits Only.

6. The average relief allowance for a family on home relief is now $23.30 a month. [This does not cover all family expenses, but only the deficit in the family budget].

7. On the other hand, it costs $78.37 a month to keep a man on WPA; $52.82 for wages and $25.55 for administration and materials. Of this $64.42 is paid by the federal government and $13.95 by states and localities.

8. If all relief families in 1937 had been handled on the coöperative relief system, actually in effect in 1935 when part were on home relief and part were on work relief, economically administered, there would have been a saving of $1,235,176,000.

The story concludes: "Relief costs have steadily mounted in spite of reduced relief rolls. Costly experiments, chiefly WPA, have been responsible for rising costs.

"A revamping of the relief program, federal, state and local, is needed if relief costs are to be kept within government revenue.

"But sweeping reforms are needed throughout our whole relief system to bring about closer coördination, more uniform standards, and more economical procedure."

ROBBERS CHOKE VICTIM; GET $12.

Two strangler robbers took $12 last night from Martin Callahan, 50 years old, after they had choked him into unconsciousness in front of 7136 Luella avenue. He was on his way to his home at 7801 Luella avenue at the time.

Cost of Relief

(Story in Adjoining Column.)

The 20½ billions that has been spent on relief in the last seven years, according to the National Economy league, would make a chain of one dollar bills stretching 85 times around the earth.

DEMOCRATS FACE TRIAL TODAY IN PENN SCANDALS

Earle Henchmen at End of Year's Stalling.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 11.—(AP)—Charges of official corruption in Pennsylvania's first Democratic administration in forty years, ousted by voters last fall, will reach trial stage tomorrow after more than a year of legal maneuvering.

A dozen men high in former Gov. George H. Earle's "Little New Deal" are accused of conspiring to cheat the commonwealth for their own gain. Three former cabinet officers and nine lesser Democrats comprise the group.

Pay Roll Padding Charged.

First of the indicted Democrats to go before a jury will be Roy W. Brownmiller, secretary of highways in the Earle administration. He is accused of padding highway department pay rolls in excess of $600,000 before last November's election.

Chief among the others facing trial is David L. Lawrence, Democratic state chairman and former secretary of the commonwealth, charged specifically with conspiracy to blackmail and to assess the public pay roll by demanding campaign contributions from state employés under threat of dismissal.

Attorney General Ousted.

The charges against the twelve men first were made public in a fight between opposing Democratic factions in the spring primary campaign last year.

Charles J. Margiotti, Gov. Earle's attorney general, voiced some of the accusations in speeches he made as an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Margiotti, dismissed by Earle, took his complaints to Carl B. Shelley, Republican district attorney of Dauphin county.

MOUNTAIN FOLK SONGFEST OPENS AS 4,000 ATTEND

Ashland, Ky., June 11.—(AP)—Despite the threat of rain, more than 4,000 persons from many states gathered at the "Traipsin' Woman" cabin, sixteen miles from here on the scenic Mayo trail, as the blowing of an old cow horn opened the ninth American folk song festival today.

Dressed in traditional costumes, minstrels from the eastern Kentucky mountains sang centuries-old ballads and hymns that were carried to the hillside audience by a modern sound system.

The mournful songs of Rowan county's Gregorian chanters and the plaintive music of the dulcimer, an ancient stringed instrument rarely heard outside the mountains, echoed through the trees around the log cabin, as well as rollicking old tunes.

FRIEND OF SLAIN SPINSTER TELLS OF $8,000 GIFTS

Questioned for Clews in Radio Cord Murder.

Police questioned Fred Hayward for several hours yesterday in the hope that he might recall some fact which would lead to a solution of the radio cord murder of Miss Rose Neary. Hayward, who was married April 29, for years was the trusted friend and adviser of Miss Neary and her mother. He spoke freely of his friendship with the two women.

Police said he gave them many bits of information that may prove helpful in solving the mystery. Lieut. Otto Erlanson of the homicide squad said he intended to keep Hayward in custody over night while the information he supplied is being confirmed.

Tells of $8,000 Gifts.

Hayward's help was regarded as of importance in the investigation because he had an appointment to see Miss Neary on June 2, the day she was found strangled with a radio cord in her apartment at 3248 Franklin boulevard.

Hayward told yesterday of the $7,000 left him by Miss Neary's mother upon her death in February, 1938. He told police that the money was in an envelope which was given him by Miss Neary, who was executrix of her mother's will. Hayward said Miss Neary gave him an additional $1,000 at that time.

Hayward recently purchased the home in which he and his bride live at 121st street and 93d avenue in Palos Park. Lieut. Erlanson said he would ask Hayward where he got the $2,700 for the down payment. He said this might recall to Hayward something that would aid in the investigation.

Appointment Surprises Friends.

Erlanson also planned to ask Hayward about statements of Miss Neary's friends that they understood she had seen little of Hayward in the last few months. The friends expressed surprise that he had made an engagement to help Miss Neary with her finances the day she was killed.

Hayward, who is 39 years old, is an assistant foreman at the Crane company plant. He told police that Miss Neary telephoned him there early on the morning of their appointment to tell him she would have to cancel it because of a more important matter that had come up. Hayward told her he had been about to telephone her to postpone the meeting because he, too, was busy.

Police said that Hayward was so busy that he was unable to leave the plant all day June 2, except for the hours from 3 to 5 p. m., when Hayward went to a repair shop to get his car.

Victim's Age Disclosed.

It was disclosed yesterday that Miss Neary, who was believed by her friends to be 50 years old, in reality was 48. She had, however, retained her youthful appearance.

Henry Nunnelly of 1350 Madison street was released yesterday. He had been questioned because remarks he had made about the case had aroused suspicion that he might have stumbled upon valuable information. Nunnelly is a handy man in the Franklin Boulevard hospital, near the Neary home.

NURSE PAROLED AFTER AN EPIDEMIC IN PRISON MAY LOSE HIS LIBERTY

Edward Bloebaum, an ex-convict who won his freedom because he worked as a nurse during an epidemic of spinal meningitis in a prison hospital, yesterday faced the loss of his liberty as a parole violator. His alleged violation consisted of visiting a former cellmate, Ledger Veazey, who escaped from the Jefferson City, Mo., penitentiary last September.

Police learned that Bloebaum, who was paroled in May of 1938, visited Veazey recently in Bloebaum's home town of St. Charles, Mo. He failed to report having seen the escaped convict, which constitutes a violation of parole.

Bloebaum, who is 29 years old, has been employed in the Chicago Home for Incurables since his parole. Sylvester Ziegemeier, his companion in prison and a fellow worker in the home, was questioned by police and permitted to return to work. Ziegemeier and Bloebaum were sent to the Missouri penitentiary in 1931 for bank robbery.

FAKE PHONE CALL CLEARS ROBBER'S PATH AT BENEFIT

A fake telephone call cost the benefit horse show at the South Shore Country club $47 yesterday. The victim was Howard Parker, club employé, who was selling tickets. A blond young man stepped up to Parker, and told him he was wanted on the telephone a short distance away. Parker, who had seen the man several times before and thought him to be an employé, left his booth to answer. He found there was no call for him. When he returned the ticket office cash drawer had been looted.

5 KIDNAP WARDEN AND FLEE BOYS' PRISON IN AUTO

Buena Vista, Colo., June 11.—(AP)—Five reformatory inmates kidnaped Warden Walter H. Johnson today, freed him 15 minutes later, and escaped, vowing they never would be taken alive.

Two miles from the reformatory the five stopped a guard's car they had stolen and said they were going to kill the warden. He related that as Needham Ferguson, 23 years old, of Denver, leveled a 30-30 rifle at his chest, another of the group, James Williams, 17, of Lawton, Okla., stepped in front of the gun and protested, "he's been square with me." Then they freed the warden and drove toward Colorado Springs.

All were serving relatively short terms for burglary and larceny. The break occurred while Warden Johnson was showing visitors through the reformatory. "The youths," he said, "jumped on me with three knives. They told the guard up above they would kill me if he didn't throw down his gun. He obeyed. They piled me into a car and started east."

Harold F. McCormick Rests as Gangrene Is Blocked

Los Angeles, Cal., June 11.—[Special.]—Harold F. McCormick was reported resting today. His physician, Dr. Donald J. Grick, believes that the gangrene has been arrested, although still too early to be certain. Apparently the operation to remove the blood clot lodged in his right resulted successfully and the leg will be saved, he said.

Apartment Fire Ties Up Michigan Avenue Trafic

Fire believed to have been started by a carelessly tossed cigaret caused damage of $750 to a three story brick apartment building at 3030 and 3032 South Michigan avenue yesterday. Trafic was tied up along Michigan avenue for about thirty minutes.

20,000 LANDLORDS SALUTE YOU!

By CALEB

NOT all the world sleeps at home o' nights. Nor ever has. Far back as the memory of man runs, the farer abroad has had to seek bed and board of "mine host," who kept such accommodations available at a price. Had you wandered, a hundred years ago, into James Kinzie's Green Tree Tavern, at about the present corner of Lake and Canal streets, this matter of price . . . well, judge for yourself. Breakfast or supper, 25 cents. Dinner, 37½c. Lodging for one, 12½ cents per night. A pint of rum, wine, or brandy, 37½ cents. A feed for your horse, 25 cents. A quart of beer or cider, 12½ cents.

Nor was the American hostelry of a century and more ago without its discriminations. "No more than five to sleep in one bed." "No razor grinders or tinkers taken in." "No beer allowed in the kitchen." "No boots to be worn in bed." "Organ grinders to sleep in the wash house." Such were a few of the restrictions our forefathers deemed necessary to decent innkeeping . . .

Making their obeisance to patrons and public as National Hotel Week, the hosts of hoteldom point to their status, today, as seventh largest industry in the United States. With some 20,000 ranking hotels, employing more than a half million people, and maintaining 1,750,000 guest rooms, the practical aspects of that pride run into impressive statistics. Such as a billion and a quarter meals served, last year, to guests and employes. Or taxes aggregating $120,000,000. Or salaries and wages of $475,000,000. Or an annual furniture bill of $24,000,000; another $19,000,000 for new decorations; another $9,000,000 for kitchen equipment . . .

In this matter of providing "a home away from home" worthy of today's fastidious guests, daily accommodations for some 400,000 people indicate our own city's rank as one of the world's hotel centers. It is typical of the Greater Chicago Hotel Association's efficiency that arrangements have already been completed to feed, shelter, and facilitate the personal business of some quarter of a million visitors, who will congregate here next September 25th to 28th, for the American Legion Convention.

In comfort, convenience, safety, service, and luxurious surroundings, the modern hotel is a far cry from the inn, tavern or lodging-house of Auld Lang Syne. Paying their respects to a pre-eminent nation of travelers automatically assures twenty thousand landlords of the nation's congratulations and good wishes, in return.

SUGGEST FRANCO MAY JOIN ITALY IN WAR ALLIANCE

Visit of Count Ciano to Spain Seen as Omen.

MADRID, June 11.—(AP)—Spanish newspapers today reported that Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy would visit Generalissimo Francisco Franco soon. They suggested the possibility Spain may join Italy in a political and military accord similar to the ties between Rome and Berlin.

Reports that Count Ciano possibly would come to Spain June 21 were banner-lined in the newspapers. They said his conversations with Franco "may resolve a political-military accord between Madrid and Rome." They also raised the possibility of a similar link between Madrid and Berlin.

[Both Germany and Italy aided Generalissimo Franco in the Spanish civil war. They signed a military pact May 22.]

Spain Powerful Ally.

Spain would be a powerful ally for the axis nations, particularly for any operations in the Mediterranean and North Africa. Spain repeatedly has demonstrated close friendship with Italy and Germany. In both of those nations there now are Spanish missions which accompanied legionnaires returning from victorious participation in the civil war.

Spaniards were agreed, however, that Franco would go very slowly before committing his nation to any agreement calling for military aid. The Nationalist leader has declared Spain's first concern now was her reconstruction.

She already is aligned with Germany and Italy through the anti-communist pact whose other signatories are Japan, Hungary, and Manchukuo.

Believe Italy Wants Alliance.

ROME, June 11.—(AP)—Diplomatic quarters speculated today on the possibility of an Italian-Spanish military alliance as an outgrowth of current conversations among Italian and Spanish military and naval officers.

Some diplomats said they believed Italy desired such an alliance but expressed doubts that Generalissimo Francisco Franco would be drawn into one.

Such an alliance, they said, might be effected by Spain's whole or partial adherence to the present treaty between Italy and Germany or by a pact with Italy alone since the geographical positions of Italy and Spain would offer special opportunities for strategical collaboration.

Confers with Mussolini.

Franco's brother-in-law, Ramon Serrano Suner, Spain's minister of interior, has had lengthy conferences with Premier Mussolini since his arrival last week with Spanish civil war veterans and returning Italian legionnaires.

Spanish military and naval missions which accompanied the Italian combatants from Spain left today with Italian officers to inspect industrial establishments in Turin and Milan which turn out war materials.

Foreign military observers said if Italy should induce Franco to sign a military accord, she would have incalculable advantages in event of a war with the possibility of establishing air and submarine bases on Spanish territory.

Diplomats, however, said they felt such an alliance would be of no advantage to Spain and that Franco would offer firm resistance to any pressure to get him to sign up.

Hollywood, Cal., June 11.—[Special.]—Patricia Ziegfeld, daughter of the late Flo Ziegfeld, musical show impresario, and Billie Burke, actress, was honeymooning today with William Robert Stephenson, dancing instructor, whom she married yesterday at the All Saints Episcopal church in Beverly Hills. They are motoring to Colorado Springs, Colo.

The wedding was attended by 200 guests and was one of the most brilliant of the season. A reception at the Beverly Hills home of Miss Burke followed the ceremony. The former Miss Ziegfeld, who attended the University of California at Los Angeles, is giving up her career as a writer and newspaper woman.

POPE PIUS THANKS SPANISH VETS FOR DEFENDING FAITH

3,200 Cheer at Reception in Vatican.

VATICAN CITY, June 11.—(AP)—Pope Pius XII. personally thanked 3,200 Spanish soldiers today for defending "the faith and civilization" of Spain under Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The pontiff received the veterans of the civil war, who came here to march before Premier Mussolini in his victory celebration, along with Ramon Serrano Suner, Franco's brother-in-law and interior minister, and Gen. Gastone Gambara, commander of the Italians who fought in Spain.

Kiss Pope's Hand.

The pontiff showed the esteem in which he held the soldiers by extending a hand for them to kiss as he passed among them. Ordinarily he does not do that in receiving so large a group.

After sitting upon his throne the pope said:

"Welcome, leaders, officers, and soldiers of Catholic Spain, my most beloved sons, who bring to the heart of your father an immense consolation because you have been the defenders of the faith and civilization of your fatherland for which you have given so much."

Receives Leaders Privately.

The soldiers, wearing khaki uniforms and holding tasseled trench caps, cheered the holy father as he entered and knelt as he passed among them.

After blessing them the pontiff received their leaders privately.

MEXICAN POLICE JAIL 25 AFTER RIOTERS HURL ROCKS AT U. S. PLANE

MEXICO CITY, June 11.—(AP)—Thousands packed a great part of the plaza fronting the presidential palace today for a last glimpse of Francisco Sarabia, Mexico's ace aviator who was killed in a crash at Washington, D. C., June 7. Afterward there was a funeral procession and a burial in the Hall of Illustrious Heroes.

The army placed a heavy guard about the flying fortress which brought Sarabia's body here. Police disclosed that twenty-five persons were arrested yesterday when a part of the crowd threw rocks at the plane. The police report said there were shouts of "Viva Sarabia and death to saboteurs" after the plane arrived. A few who then tossed rocks were seized.

This disorder and another at a football game at the national stadium today were attributed to rumors, officially denied by Mexico, that sabotage was responsible for the aviator's fall into the Potomac river. At the stadium, students of the government polytechnic institute clashed with students from the American school. University of Mexico students went to the aid of the American school students. A few black eyes and bruises resulted.

Boy, 9, Saves Three Men from Lake; Fourth Drowns

Youngstown, O., June 11.—(AP)—Nine year old Donald Booth today rescued three men from drowning in nearby Lake Milton but was unable to save a fourth, S. F. Cholar, 49 years old, of Lisbon, who drowned. Attracted by the men's shouts, the boy guided an outboard motorboat to the spot where they were struggling near their overturned boat. He assisted the three into his craft but did not arrive in time to reach Cholar.

ARRAIGN SUSPECT IN UNDERTAKER VIOLENCE TODAY

Fiore Buccieri, 32 years old, 810 South Paulina street, who was arrested Thursday by police investigating vandalism against undertakers, will be arraigned today in the South State street court on two charges of disorderly conduct and one of carrying concealed weapons.

Buccieri, who has a record of arrests dating back to 1925, was driving an automobile in which police found a slingshot. Several undertakers reported that their windows have been broken by stones in the last six weeks.

Buccieri said he had been employed by Joseph E. Kavanaugh, president of the Embalmers, Funeral Directors, Morticians and Assistants' union, local 21303, for the last two months to solicit new members and to obtain wage contracts from undertakers. He said he also is employed as a laborer for the sanitary district.

CHARGE ENGLAND TRIES TO SATISFY DICTATORS AGAIN

Cabinet Shakeup Urged by Chamberlain's Foes.

LONDON, June 11.—(AP)—Great Britain's efforts to bring soviet Russia into the British-French front were overshadowed today by a barrage of criticism growing out of what opponents of the government called appeasement gestures toward Germany and Italy.

The new attacks coincided with increasing demands for a cabinet shakeup. They created an important political problem for Prime Minister Chamberlain in view of reports that the date for a general election was set this week-end for the first week in October.

The prime minister will be asked in parliament tomorrow to explain the purpose of conciliatory statements made to parliament Thursday both by himself and his foreign secretary, Viscount Halifax.

View Offers With Suspicion.

Despite denials in official circles of any intention to return to an appeasement policy, opposition leaders and a large section of the press viewed with suspicion their offers to discuss Rome-Berlin axis aspirations.

Arthur Greenwood, acting Labor party leader, said in a speech last night that the government "declares itself favorable to pacts of mutual assistance, but it is not at all clear that it would not crawl back to the discredited plan of appeasement if even a shadow of an opportunity presented itself."

Greenwood already had served notice he would ask Chamberlain whether the government has any intention of trying to negotiate German and Italian claims for colonies and economic "living space."

Calls Offer Ill-Timed.

Under the heading, "it is a betrayal," the left-wing Reynold's Weekly commented:

"Is Lord Halifax' offer to discuss colonial problems with dictators an honest attempt to dispel from German minds the threat of encirclement or a dishonest return to the policy of appeasement?

"Certain it is ill-timed. It will raise in Russia as well as in this country doubts as to whether Great Britain is single-minded in rebuilding a peace front in Europe.

"It will set in motion a train of evil speculation on the possibilities of reviving Mr. Chamberlain's discredited policy of doing a deal with dictators at the expense of other nations."

Even the pro-government Times acknowledged that Halifax's speech had raised suspicions "in not a few quarters both at home and abroad" that the government might be turning back toward appeasement. But, it said, the only aim was to offset German charges of encirclement.

Here's What Leader Said.

The foreign secretary told the house of lords Thursday that "provided that the independence of nations is recognized," Britain was "not only willing but anxious to explore the whole problem of living space not only for Germany but all European nations."

At the same time, Chamberlain reiterated in commons Britain's willingness to discuss colonial and economic questions provided there was an atmosphere of mutual confidence.

The Express featured an article entitled "Men Who Ought to Go" which said the ministers were divided into two groups—"those who want to retire" and "those who are wanted to retire."

It listed Halifax in the first group and in the second put Viscount Runciman, lord president of the council; Earl Stanhope, first lord of the admiralty, and Lord Maugham, lord chancellor.

Hollywood, Cal., June 11.—[Special.]—Sigrid Gurie, movie actress, announced today that she and Dr. Laurence C. Spangard, Hollywood physician, will be married on Aug. 6. Miss Gurie recently divorced Thomas W. Stewart, a leather goods salesman, and is waiting for the decree to become final in July.

ROAMING JEWS ASK BRITAIN TO LET THEM LAND

LONDON, June 11 (Sunday).—(AP)—Pleas for asylum in Great Britain or at least permission to land at Southampton were reported cabled from the liner St. Louis today to Prime Minister Chamberlain by 907 German Jewish refugees refused a haven in Cuba.

The message was said to have described the refugees' position as "desperate," explaining it was impossible for them to return to Hamburg.

The St. Louis started back to Hamburg last week when the passengers were denied entrance to Cuba because their papers were not in order.

Baltic States Told Soviets Do Not Want Pact.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, June 11.—The Baltic states, which feel that their neutrality policy is threatened by the British government's persistent efforts to gain a military alliance with Moscow against Germany, ordered their ministers in Moscow to return home over the week-end to make personal reports about these negotiations. The envoys' reports were said to declare that the chances are against realization of London's projected pact.

While the soviet foreign office has been uncommunicative about British diplomatic activity, Baltic diplomats said that both Marshal Klementi Voroshilov, commissar of defense, and A. A. Zhdanov, ruler of the Leningrad district, do not want the soviet government making any commitments which might involve Russia in military operations in Europe.

Russia Avoids Pact.

They also reported disinclination among soviet circles to join England and France in their anti-aggression campaign. Soviet officials accused Prime Minister Chamberlain of Britain of being ready to make further concessions to Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Baltic observers further said that the soviet government has not ceased efforts to reach an agreement with Germany. Moscow hopes to persuade Germany to supply machinery needed to complete the third five year plan.

It is also believed that the eagerness of the British government to draw Moscow into an alliance is partly due to London's desire to obtain some orders for the $200,000,000 worth of machinery which the bolsheviks need to further industrialize Russia.

Baltic Press Attacks Reds.

The Baltic press today continued to attack the soviet government's suggestion that Baltic neutrality should be guaranteed by Moscow.

Moscow's proposal was denounced as an unfriendly act by the Estonian press. Finnish newspapers attacked alleged attempts to use the Baltic nations as pawns in the game of power politics.

All newspapers united in declaring that neither Latvia, Estonia nor Finland would recognize or accept any British-soviet treaty which makes Moscow the guardian of their future existence. They asserted that unasked for help from Moscow means war.

DANISH NEUTRALITY IS REAFFIRMED BY FOREIGN MINISTER

COPENHAGEN, June 11.—The principles governing Danish neutrality were reaffirmed today in a statement by Foreign Minister P. R. Munch. He said that in the event of war "which the Danes find it difficult to conceive is inevitable," the Oslo powers and a group of other smaller countries by keeping outside the conflict would "be serving not only their own interests but general interest."

"If a great war should really break out, a work of reconstruction would have to be taken up afterward and an international community of justice would have to be created to enable nations to collaborate," he said. "This would not be any easy task. Bitter feelings would prevail between the nations that had fought each other.

"It would be of the greatest value that there still were some nations which had not been shaken by the passions of war and which were therefore particularly suited to rebuild the bridges between nation and nation."

4 MEN STABBED IN MELEE OVER AUTO COLLISION

Four men were stabbed, one seriously, by two Negroes in a fight over a minor automobile collision at 69th and Halsted streets early today. Two of the wounded men were bystanders.

Sergt. Robert Welsh and his Englewood squad arrested the Negroes, Robert Pitts, 40 years old, 4457 Vincennes avenue, a stockyards butcher, and Grady Clark, 38, of 5748 South Halsted street.

Their car scraped fenders with one bearing Harold Strause, 27, of 7722 Emerald avenue, a maintenance man, and Frank West, 29, of 49 East Marquette road, a subway worker. In the resulting quarrel Pitts stabbed West in the abdomen and cut Strause on the right hand and leg. Clark also used a knife, police said. A general melee followed, and the two bystanders were cut. They were Charles Wells, 32, of 515 West 66th place, a county appraiser, and Henry Fear, 33, of 6913 South Racine avenue, a clerk. West was the only one critically injured. He was taken to the Englewood hospital.

Rumanian Leader Hails Unity of Balkan Entente

ANKARA, Turkey, June 11.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu of Rumania emphasized the solidarity of the Balkan entente today upon his arrival for conversations with Turkish officials. Gafencu asserted Jugo-Slavia was remaining faithful to the entente in which she is aligned with Rumania, Turkey, and Greece.

AMERICAN WOMAN, FREED FROM A SOVIET PRISON, DISAPPEARS

MOSCOW, June 11. — (AP) — Ruth Marie Rubens, the mysterious American who vanished in December, 1937, only to turn up later in a soviet Russian prison, has disappeared again.

The presiding judge of a soviet court last Friday told her in the presence of a dozen foreign correspondents and two American embassy representatives that she would be set free yesterday. She had served an 18 month prison sentence for entering Russia without a passport.

Therefore she presumably was released yesterday. Since Friday, however, both soviet authorities and the American embassy have professed to have no information concerning her whereabouts. One unconfirmed report said she was placed aboard a train bound for the western border today. There had been reports that she might go to the United States to appear in connection with a government investigation of alleged passport frauds in New York.

GERMANY PLANS TO TIGHTEN HER GRIP ON CZECHS

Nazis May Set Up Closer Union with Reich.

PRAGUE, June 11.—(AP)—Reports were current tonight that reorganization of Germany's Bohemia-Moravia protectorate might result from incidents in which a Czech and a German policeman were killed.

Konstantin von Neurath.

Some well informed Czech quarters feared the protectorate might be abolished and some closer union with Germany established.

At any rate, Czechs were expecting an extension of German control in consequence of the fatal shooting of a German police sergeant, Wilhelm Kniest, at Kladno last week.

New Restrictions Withheld.

Baron Konstantin von Neurath, the reich's protector for the area of dissolved Czecho-Slovakia, had threatened new restrictive measures unless Kniest's slaying was solved yesterday but they were withheld, at least temporarily.

Meanwhile a separate incident was disclosed in which a Czech policeman, Johann Mueller, was slain in a quarrel with German police at Nachod Saturday night.

The purpose of tighter German control, according to reports in Prague, would be mainly to strengthen police regulations to prevent clashes between dissatisfied Czechs and German officials and residents.

Another purpose was described as an effort to reconcile the Czechs to the new order and persuade them to enter into more intimate cultural and political relations with Germany.

Leans Towards Appeasement.

Germany's problem, German circles said, was to choose between methods—complete domination by force or an appeasement policy to break down the passive resistance which has made the protectorate a troublesome region to govern.

The course of Nazi policy seemed today to be, at least momentarily, toward appeasement.

Von Neurath's decision not to impose additional penalties on industrial Kladno was regarded as a conciliatory move. The town had been placed under virtual martial law Thursday soon after the shooting. Many civil authorities were replaced by Germans and its Czech populace was fined $20,000.

Weizmann Assails British Policies for Holy Land

GENEVA, June 11.—(AP)—Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, sent a letter today to the mandates committee of the league of nations attacking Britain's new policy on Palestine as "the triumph of force over moderation." The committee must approve Britain's proposal to set the country up as an independent state in which Arabs would have the majority voice.

Nazis Seize Headquarters of Polish Group in Silesia

RATIBOR, Germany, June 11.—(AP)—German secret police today seized the headquarters of the Polish minority in this Silesia district. The action, police explained, was in retaliation for the confiscation in recent days of the homes of German minorities in Polish Silesia and Osla territory.

MOUNT EVANS PUSHES PIKES PEAK FOR HONOR OF HIGHEST HIGHWAY

Location of Colorado's Rival Mountains.

The opening of a newly constructed highway to the top of Mount Evans, 55 miles west of Denver, raises a question which may require some fine measuring to settle.

For many years Pikes Peak, near Colorado Springs, had its own way with the highest automobile road glory. But this is the new difficulty:

Mount Evans has an elevation of 14,260 feet. Pike's Peak is 14,110 above sea level. The Mount Evans road doesn't go quite to the top, while the Pikes Peak route ends on the very summit. Engineers estimate Evans sticks up 150 feet beyond the end of the road. That would make both roads virtually the same height.

PROTEST BOMBING OF U. S. MISSION IN CHINA BY JAPS

Call Attention to 20 Such Incidents in 3 Months.

PEIPING, China, June 10.—(AP)—[Delayed.]—The United States protested today to the Japanese embassy against the bombing May 24 of the American Southern Baptist mission at Laiyang, in northern Shantung province, by a Japanese seaplane.

It was pointed out that this was the seventh Japanese bombing of American mission property during May. Nine such incidents were reported in March and four in April.

The Rev. Herbert C. Meyer of the American Evangelical Lutheran mission at Enshih, in southwestern Hupeh province, reported the mission's school and church razed by Japanese bombers on June 7.

British Captive Returns.

Lieut. John Cooper, British assistant military attaché, released after being held by Japanese soldiers at Kalgan, returned here apparently in good health.

The British embassy made public the text of a statement signed by Cooper before his release from Kalgan.

"I apologize for entering the Kalgan war zone without a military pass," it said, "and shall never knowingly commit the same error in the future in any Japanese war zone in China. Any information I may have got since May 25 concerning the Kalgan war zone will never be transmitted to the Chinese side."

Detain Attache.

Cooper, captive since May 26 when he was arrested with Lieut. Col. C. R. Spear, British military attaché, was escorted here by a uniformed Japanese soldier who vanished immediately in crowds at the railroad station. Spear, reported to be charged with collecting military information inside Japanese zones, still was detained.

That the Japanese army henceforth will take any measures it deems appropriate in the case of any person who enters its area of operations without permission and communicates with the enemy was threatened in a Japanese protest over the incident.

Domei [Japanese news agency] said the protest was handed to British authorities immediately after Cooper's return from Kalgan.

10,000 SALUTE FLAG AT FETE IN SOLDIERS' FIELD

35 Nationalities Take Part in Exercises.

More than 10,000 persons, representing thirty-five nationalities, gathered beneath threatening skies in Soldiers' field yesterday to take part in annual Flag day exercises. The ceremony was sponsored by the Non-Sectarian League for Americanism, of which Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin is president.

Thousands of marchers participated in the parade which opened the three hour program. They represented civic, fraternal, labor, and nationality groups, American Legion posts, and other veterans' organizations. For an hour the parade moved past the reviewing stand before military, civic, and business leaders.

Pay Homage to Flag.

Many of the marchers and those in the audience were foreign born. All had gathered in the stadium to pay homage to the flag of their adopted country.

Among speakers was Dr. Louis L. Mann, rabbi of the Chicago Sinai congregation. He called for unity in the fight against the "isms" which threaten the country.

"Catholic, Protestant, and Jew are united in their faith in the Stars and Stripes," said Dr. Mann. "We are united by a love for humanity and a protest against barbarism. We must have no 'ism' but Americanism. Our democracy, it is true, is not perfect, but the answer is not Fascism and the answer is not communism. The answer is more democracy, a better democracy, and a more complete democracy."

National Dances Performed.

Other speakers included Edward A. Hayes, past national commander of the American Legion; the Rev. John O'Hearn, pastor of St. Edward Catholic church, and the Rev. Ralph Wakefield, president of the Chicago Church federation.

During the program members of nationality groups performed native dances on wooden platforms in the center of the big arena. Choral groups of other societies sang national songs.

KILLED WHEN CAR SKIDS.

Waterloo, Ia., June 11.—(Special.)—Nick Gilbert, 70 years old, a bachelor of New Hampton, Ia., was killed on the highway north of here last night when his car skidded on wet pavement and plunged into a ditch.

FRENCH DISCOVER SPIES' RAILWAY UNDER FRONTIER

VALENCIENNES, France, June 11.—(AP)—Police today reported the discovery of an underground railway linking Belgium with France. The discovery was made in the old Château Mont de Peruwelz on the French side of the frontier. The police said the railroad apparently was used by an espionage ring to get military secrets out of France.

Two men and a woman found in the château, where a secret passage led to an underground narrow gauge line to Belgium, were held on charges of espionage and smuggling.

NAVY ACCLAIMS RESCUE BELL AS SUB SAFETY AID

American Equipment Held Superior to British.

Washington, D. C., June 11.—[Special.]—Officials of the navy department today reviewed the question of submarine efficiency and safety as a crew of salvage workers continued tunneling through blue muck under the sunken Squalus, 240 feet beneath the Atlantic ocean off Portsmouth, N. H.

The navy men compared the rescue bell which brought all the living up from the Squalus on May 24 with the British equipment that saved only four of 103 men aboard the British submarine Thetis as it nosed into the bottom of the Irish sea last week. They agreed that the comparison favored the American equipment, especially since the Squalus was lodged about twice as deep as the British boat, one end of which remained above water at high tide.

Use Artificial Lungs.

Both American and British submarines are equipped with artificial lungs, which are oxygen bags with tubes for breathing and designed to enable men to escape individually from submarines as deep as their bodies can stand the water pressure. But the British have made the evident mistake of relying almost solely on this device in time of emergency, in spite of the fact that they have suffered seven major submarine disasters since 1922, with a toll of 376 dead. In the same period the United States has had only three disasters, the last before the Squalus being the S-4, which sank off Provincetown, Mass., twelve years ago.

That disaster led to the adoption by the United States navy of the rescue bell which justified its existence by saving thirty-three lives from the Squalus. Made for use at depths too great for a man with an artificial lung, this type of rescue chamber is fitted to clamp itself over a submarine's escape hatch, enabling the trapped crew to climb into it without necessarily getting wet or having to wear any sort of diving equipment.

Diver Attaches Cable.

One diver is required, however, to descend beforehand to the stricken sub to attach a cable to the outside of the escape hatch. The other end of this cable is fastened to a reel inside the rescue bell, which pulls itself downward by reeling in the cable until it is guided to its destination and settles upon and around the hatch like an inverted cup covering the stopper at the bottom of a sink.

At this point the men in the rescue bell clamp it tightly to the submarine with clamps fitted for the purpose, and turn on the compressed air supplied by tube from the salvage ship above. The compressed air blows the sea water away from the escape hatch and out of the lower compartment of the bell into the sea, making a dry space for the submarine crew to climb into when they open the hatch. As many times as is necessary the rescue bell can return for more loads of men, and it can supply fresh air to the submarine through its air tube.

Die in Flooded Compartment.

The reason that all of the Squalus' crew were not rescued in the nine ton bell is that twenty-six of them drowned in the flooded compartments of the submarine at the time of its sinking and long before the bell could be brought from New London, Conn., to do its work.

To those who deplore the scarcity of rescue bells, pointing out that a submarine accident might happen too far away for a bell to reach it in time to save its crew, the naval officers have replied that their record for safe submarine operation is eminently good as it stands.

Despite the few catastrophes United States submarines make an average of 750 submergings every month year after year without mishap, they declared. In fact, since the S-4 went down with forty lives, American submarines have submerged upward of 100,000 times without serious accidents.

Valves Believed at Fault.

The exact causes of the sinking of both the British submarine Thetis and the American Squalus are as yet unknown, and investigations await the slow work of salvage. But faulty valves are believed to account for both accidents; an air intake valve in the case of the Squalus, and a torpedo tube valve on the Thetis.

In the case of the Thetis it is not clear why rescuers were unable to cut a hole in the part of the hull above water and let the trapped men escape. There was a full day of effort to rescue the men while they were still alive, and not even a small air hole was drilled in the protruding stern during this time.

For explanation to date we have only the curt words of the British admiralty: "The submarine was not out of the water far enough for a hole to be cut to allow the men to escape. There were great diving difficulties in the tideway."

HIS LEG PINNED IN WRECK; FREED, GOES ON TO WORK

Seattle, Wash., June 11.—(AP)—Piteous cries of Anton Sather, 70 years old, begging them to hurry, spurred rescuers as they frantically tried to free his leg from wreckage of his automobile after it had been struck by a train.

"Please hurry," Sather urged.

But when the ambulance arrived, Sather said calmly:

"You won't need that. It was my wooden leg that was caught."

"Then what was your hurry?" a perspiring rescuer demanded.

And to work he went, after having minor cuts treated. Not even the wooden leg was damaged seriously.

FLIGHT ACROSS LAKE IN MOTORLESS PLANE POSTPONED TO TODAY

Frankfort, Mich., June 11.—[Special.]—The translake soaring flight was postponed this afternoon until tomorrow. Ted Bellak, the Frankfort soaring instructor who is in Sturgeon Bay, Wis., awaiting an opportunity to fly his motorless plane across 54 miles of open water to this city, called off the attempt at 3 p. m. Bellak, who tells his friends he believes he probably will fall into Lake Michigan, decided the weather was too much of a handicap.

Furthermore, the airplane that is to tow his soaring plane to 17,000 feet to launch the flight did not reach Sturgeon Bay until nearly dark, because of bad weather. Its pilot, Cas Szmagaj, said the trip, begun at Detroit yesterday, had been rough, with landings at South Bend, Ind., and Sheboygan, Wis.

PERSHING RIDES IN PARIS; DENIES HE IS SICK MAN

PARIS, June 11.—(AP)—Gen. John J. Pershing, A. E. F. commander in the world war, went for a drive in Paris today after spending several days in bed resting from his trip from the United States. Associates earlier had said the general, who is 78 years old, suffered a heart attack yesterday, but Pershing scorned these reports with the statement: "Me ill? It's ridiculous!"

Pershing, who came to France last week as chairman of the American battle monuments commission, said he had been tired out by his trip—his seventy-first Atlantic voyage—and had stayed in bed several days resting.

He said his condition was good and there was no cause for alarm.

will increase its prices for tank-wagon deliveries of all grades of gasoline ½¢ per gallon throughout the 42 states in which it operates.

The industry will not be on a sound basis until it receives an adequate return for its products.

The industry cannot continue to operate on a product-price level which does not permit the refiner-marketer to meet his costs and recover what he pays for his raw material—crude oil.

We believe the public is willing to pay a fair price for gasoline and other petroleum products in order that the industry may continue to employ the 1,000,000 people on its payrolls, pay a fair return on the capital invested in the industry, carry a tax burden of more than $1,250,000,000 annually, and supply the consumer with the best fuels and lubricants at reasonable prices.

BIRTH RATE DROP CUTS SCHOLASTIC ROLL BY 100,000

10 Year Survey Shows Big Decline in County.

There are 100,000 fewer pupils in elementary schools in Cook county now than there were 10 years ago. That fact is shown by statistics compiled from records of the Chicago board of education, the Catholic board of education, and the county superintendent of schools.

The decline is attributed by authorities of all three bodies to the declining birth rate. In 1927 the birth rate in Chicago was 19.6 births for every 1,000 persons. The next year it dropped to 18.7 and in 1933 reached an all time low of 13.4. Last year it had increased to 14.3.

Half Million Pupils Now.

In 1928 there were 614,262 elementary school pupils in the county. Today there are only 514,064.

The greatest decline as been in the Chicago public elementary schools, which had 363,920 pupils in 1928 and 291,527 in the present school year. That is a drop of 19.9 per cent.

The decrease in Chicago public schools is attributed not only to the declining birth rate but also to migration of families to the suburbs. This assumption is upheld by the fact that the percentage of decrease has not been so great outside the city limits.

Catholic schools in Chicago fared better than public schools. Their decline in enrollment was only 12 per cent. Enrollment was 125,513 this year.

Suburban Loss Only 11.7 Per Cent.

The decline during 10 years in public schools outside Chicago was only 11.7 per cent. In 1928 enrollment in those schools was 77,049. This year it is estimated at 68,000. The migration of city families to the suburbs was particularly noticeable in 1929 when elementary enrollment in schools outside Chicago increased to 78,117.

The Catholic schools within the Chicago archdiocese, but outside the city limits, show a decline of 5.2 per cent. They have 29,024 pupils enrolled this year.

Report Alaskan Volcanic Ash Falling in Oregon

Toledo, Ore., June 11.—(AP)—A thick black sediment, believed by residents to be volcanic ash from erupting Mount Vaniaminof in Alaska, 1,000 miles away, covered this section of the Oregon coast today. The ash was tracked into countless homes and sent hundreds of automobiles to wash racks. The mysterious "dirt" was deposited by fog.

EXPECT PASSAGE OF CHICAGO PARK LEVY TOMORROW

Chicago Park district pegged tax levies totaling $32,500,000 for 1939, 1940, and 1941 are expected to be authorized by the Illinois general assembly tomorrow. This will be one of the important measures awaiting the house of representatives when it convenes tonight. The senate goes into action tomorrow.

Proposed cuts in the park levy were voted down in several roll calls last week. These test votes have given park district officials confidence the measure will go through in its original form when it is called by agreement tomorrow.

Advocates of the park bill point out that it is not being opposed by the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency, a taxpayers' organization. The bill calls for levies of $10,500,000 for 1939, $11,000,000 in 1940, and $11,000,000 in 1941. The 1938 levy is pegged at $7,600,000.

MADRID, June 11.—(AP)—The newspaper ABC today charged that Spanish republican refugees in the United States were pressing a campaign "inciting American citizens and Spanish residents there to adopt Spanish children and prevent their return to Spain." The newspaper charged the alleged drive was "collective kidnaping." It called on Alexander W. Weddell, American ambassador designate to Spain, to explain how the United States government can "tolerate such an infamous exploitation of Spanish children."

ROSES BLOOMING ON 35,000 BUSHES IN CITY'S PARKS

Five Chicago parks are to be bowers of roses this week with 35,000 rose bushes bursting into full bloom.

The three finest displays, according to August Koch, chief horticulturist of the Chicago park district, are at Humboldt, Jackson and Washington parks. Two others of note are in Garfield and Douglas parks.

Humboldt park alone boasts 7,500 climbers, tea and perpetual hybrid rose garden. Washington park contains 4,000 yellow, pink and red varieties. Jackson park has 6,000 shrubby Ramanus roses south of the Japanese gardens on Wooded Island as a luxurious background for numerous tea and hybrid perpetuals.

Some of the finest peonies in the world, including 200 new hybrid varieties, went on display at Garfield park yesterday in a peony and iris show given by the American Peony society and the American Iris society in coöperation with the Midwest Horticultural society. Of the hybrids exhibited by L. L. Glasscock of Elwood, some are seeming transparent; others look like waxed water lilies.

BUYING UP THE BOURGEOISIE.

The third termers believe that the relief appropriation of over 1 billion will continue the purchase of the vote of the unemployed. The WPA can be used politically again as it has been if the money is obtained from congress. Various investigations have shown the scandal of this and are still uncovering it, but with money in pocket the third termers will not be scared out of using it. They will have everything at stake and will not be frightened off by the Sheppard committee or any other investigators.

The appropriations for the farmers for subsidies and loans will continue to be used to persuade the crop raisers that they will get more cash money from Mr. Roosevelt than from any one else. The farmers know that Mr. Wallace is a broken down wizard, but nevertheless the third termers hope that cash in pocket will continue to have its political persuasiveness and that the farmers will vote for their treasury checks.

Even if Mr. Green of the American Federation of Labor is dissatisfied and will not accept the situation favoring Lewis' Congress of Industrial Organization as just or fair, the New Deal thinks it is playing the better political game by throwing in with Lewis, who has money as well as votes.

There is another important voting element which cannot be attacked as reactionary enemies of the people, which has been complaining and which, the third termers believe, can be made as susceptible to treasury influences as other large blocs of the voters have been. The neglected voters who have fallen outside the vote-getting subsidies are the small business men. To most of them the revolution has been an ache in the neck. They constitute what the communists call the petty bourgeoisie with whom revolutions in their early stages sometimes deal, seeking their coöperation. Later they are to be liquidated, but they need not know that in advance.

Mr. Marriner Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, supported by the third term economists and financial experts, has presented the plan of subsidization intended to buy up the support of small business. It could be done either through the federal reserve system or through any agency that congress might wish to set up. Mr. Eccles would start out with a revolving fund which would create at the start a credit of a quarter of a billion for loans to small and medium size business. Even the third term economists concede that the country cannot expect to get back to an eighty billion dollar annual national income until it has reached a twenty billion dollar annual capital outlay, and that in turn is possible only when a long term of confidence has been created free from the uncertainties of political revolution. So Mr. Eccles and his experts are not proposing anything for recovery, but merely for the purchase of another bloc of votes.

THE NEW CAR FRANCHISE.

Little progress appears to have been made as yet toward the drafting of a new local transportation ordinance. One obstacle has been the reluctance of each of the interests concerned to make the first offer; there is supposed to be a tactical advantage in letting the other fellow do the leading. A more important reason for the failure to get negotiations started has been the inherent difficulty of the problem, and here the obstacle is essentially a financial one.

To give Chicago better transportation a great deal of new money will be required. The city has its traction fund, but a good deal of that is being spent for subway construction. The street car companies have something like 20 million dollars in cash, but all of that and a great deal more is needed merely to rehabilitate the surface lines. The bus company is making a little money, but it is a relatively small outfit and if it is merged with the others can bring little new capital into the pool. The elevated company is in a condition which can best be described as desperate. For years it has scarcely been able to meet operating expenses, and as matters stand can command no credit. Perhaps the construction of the subway to carry rapid transit trains through the loop will increase gross earnings to some degree, but the improvement is not likely to be great because most of the elevated lines pass through areas of declining population and wealth.

The problem of drafting a franchise which will enable the new company to command credit in large amounts is complicated by political considerations. The elevated lines can hardly be left out in view of the city's investment in subway construction. More especially, the elevated lines, though from the business viewpoint a washout, nevertheless provide daily transportation for tens of thousands of voters who depend upon this service and want it continued. In the circumstances political influence will be exerted to keep the elevated trains in operation.

In view of the difficulties it is not likely that an ideal solution will be arrived at. The negotiators will do well to recognize that fact from the start and prepare themselves to make compromises. Their most important aim should be to write an agreement between the city and the company which will encourage new capital to seek investment in Chicago's local transportation. The great need is for new equipment and more equipment, and this costs money, perhaps 100 million dollars as a starter. A franchise which will fail to give every reasonable encouragement to investment will scarcely be worth the paper it is written on.

THE GUNNING BILLS.

The Gunning bills, which the state senate passed unanimously on Thursday, will be an important contribution to the abatement of juvenile crime in Illinois.

A walled institution is provided for incorrigibles. This is the logical answer to the repeated escapes of young terrorists from the present unwalled school for boys at St. Charles. The department of public welfare is given power to transfer inmates between the present school and the proposed walled institution. No provision is made for military training in either school. The welfare department now has the power to institute it, and should do so, but it would be even better if it were made a statutory requirement beyond reach of tampering by sob sisters.

The maximum age for admission to the training school is increased from 17 to 19 years. The wisdom of this is debatable. The experience with the Pontiac reformatory should be kept in mind. Political influence was used to make the reformatory a soft spot for adult criminals, until it became a penitentiary in fact long before it was so denominated in law.

One of the Gunning bills seeks to avoid a repetition of this unfortunate experience by the provision that St. Charles prisoners shall be taken to court and resentenced on reaching the age of 21 if their further incarceration is desirable. It will require some experience with the operation of the statute to determine whether this will work as well in practice as it appears in theory.

The amendment of the definition of juvenile delinquency, removing the old shotgun definition that included everything from youthful peccadillos to murder, is all to the good. Three classifications are substituted for the previous one, criminal delinquents, criminally inclined delinquents, and delinquents. Criminal delinquents are those charged with felonies, and are to be tried hereafter in the Criminal court in Cook county. That is where they belong.

A further amendment of the Juvenile court act should make the Juvenile court record of a criminal delinquent available for his trial in the Criminal court. It could be used, of course, only under the same limitations that apply to use of the record of an adult offender.

The Gunning bills fall short in one respect. They fail to give any protection to dependent boys, who are now sent to St. Charles by most of the downstate counties. The Juvenile court of Cook county places such boys in foster homes as a rule, or occasionally in privately endowed industrial schools.

The only offense of the dependent boy is poverty. He should be given the best possible chance to become a useful citizen, because he has shown no tendency to become anything else. He should not be thrown into the company of delinquents.

The expense of foster home care for dependent boys is not great. In all but a few Illinois counties it would be less than a thousand dollars a year. The courts of those counties now send the boys to St. Charles to save local taxpayers these trifling sums. The practice should be stopped by closing the training school to them.

ON REUNIONS.

Some experience of college reunions prompts the following suggestions:

Do not express too openly the curious fact that everybody else in the class looks so old. Some people are sensitive on this point and it is possible one of them may retort "You don't look so young yourself." While this reply is plainly born of pique and envy and has no objective reality, the subject can better be avoided.

Before engaging in free reminiscence it is well to be sure that Mrs. Classmate is beyond earshot. Even then it is advisable to bear in mind that reminiscence leads to reminiscence. Mr. Classmate's turn will come in a moment. It is therefore prudent to leave Mrs. You at home.

If you are among those who fancy you never forget a face though you frequently forget names, a college reunion will be a broadening experience. Somebody you never saw before in your life is sure to greet you as an old friend and prove it by recalling names and events. In this connection it is well to remember that nobody ever crashed the gate at a college reunion. All those present were invited. You saw them daily for four years. If you once studied logic you should have no difficulty in demonstrating that the proposition "I never forget a face" is of the sort which is inherently scarcely susceptible of proof. Comfort yourself with the thought that your memory is no worse than the other fellow's. Probably better.

Do not look at pictures taken during college days. They will breed a lack of confidence in the accuracy of photography. We were men, not boys, and we didn't wear those clothes. Our partners at parties were mature women of the world, not overgrown high school girls in long dresses.

The best thing to do at reunions is to sing.

Editorial of the Day

COSTLY LITTLE TVA.

[Daily Pantagraph.]

Since the major TVA experiment got on its way there have been many reports of proposed "little TVA's." Plans have been made for dividing the country into seven districts, with one TVA for each. But congress has not yet appropriated the millions necessary for starting all of them.

One of the little TVA's has been under way in Nebraska in what is known as the Loup river power district.

An official report on the Nebraska project has just been made public, showing that expenditures on the project to the end of 1938 totaled $9,732,003.

Its operating revenues totaled $20,013, and operating expenses were $61,384. Interest on its bonded indebtedness ran up to $110,053, making a total expense for operation to date $171,437.

The net loss on operation up to this time figures $151,424.

Nowhere in the report is there any item showing depreciation or taxes, and it is stated that no provision has been made for these items, nor for amortization.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

THE FIRST BARRYMORE.

After John Barrymore had submitted to a mass interview by 500 high school journalists we decided to take a crack at him ourself, so we asked:

"Is it true that your father, Herbert Blythe, borrowed his stage name from the earl of Barrymore, as suggested in the Line of June 5?"

"Sure it's true," said John, "but maybe the earl was a distant cousin of mine, because I, too, am just a bum who has gone through a lot of money. Go read a book, if you can find it, called 'The Last of the Earls of Barrymore.'"

* * *

The earl of Barrymore, who cut a wide swathe among the Georgian bucks of the 1760s and 1770s, is described in W. Davenport Adams' "Dictionary of the Drama" as follows:

"Surely the most magnificent amateur of those days was the earl of Barrymore who, besides being an actor of apparently varied ability, built himself a theater at his seat in Berkshire, and there superintended a succession of dramatic representations. In these cases the professional was mingled with the amateur element, some of the leading actors of the day being engaged by his lordship."

He was an excellent pattern for the nonrelated Blythes to follow: a tall, handsome lady killer. His private theater was as completely equipped as any of the professional playhouses in London. Between his shows, his girls, his routs, and his gambling he is said to have wasted a fortune estimated at 30 million pounds in ten years, but this sum is probably highly exaggerated.

* * *

Amateurism of a different kind marked the early career of Herbert Blythe, alias Maurice Barrymore. He went in for boxing, and was good enough to take on Charlie Mitchell, the English champion who fought a draw with John L. Sullivan.

GARDENER'S HYMN OF HATE.

Although it's very wrong to hate,
(The Good Book makes that clear),
Some things I must abominate;
That settles me, I fear.

Bugs and weeds, weeds and bugs,
Burdock, crabgrass, cutworms, slugs;
If I burn for it, doggone,
I'll still hate you, every one.

You chickweed, pigweed, dandelion,
And ragweed, thistle, too;
You plantain, mustard, chokeweed vine,
I scorn, detest, loathe you.

You caterpillars, big and small,
Ants, beetles, you're not nice;
And you, the squeamish aphids call—
To me you're just plain lice.

Weeds and bugs, bugs and weeds,
Borers, chewers, flying seeds;
Though I'm cast below today,
I won't love you anyway.

Gaycelle.

Billy Patterson's Brother.

John Kelley, former Chicago newspaper man, now the sage of Erie, Pa., declines to rest on his laurels after having chased the Billy Patterson myth back to 1837 [June 6]. He is now running down a fabulous character named Tom Collins, familiar to drinkers of tall, cold alcoholic mixtures.

In 1874 or thereabouts, says John, Tom Collins was a name used by pranksters to enrage the populace. The method was to sign a hotel register with the fictitious entry, "Thomas J. Collins, New York," and then spread a story around town that a certain Tom Collins was saying that old Doc Brown, leading physician, didn't know the difference between smallpox and measles. Then there would be blood on the moon.

This gag became so widespread that some bartender invented the Tom Collins drink. . . . John Kelley can substantiate all this by quotations from the newspaper files of 1874.

The Class in Horticulture.

The snowball bush, whose recent blooming was celebrated in this column, has forty-one names in English folk speech, according to Contributor Virginia Moe, an expert in such matters. The prettiest, "Guelder rose," refers to its origin in the Netherlands. The ugliest is "stink tree." In between are such oddities as "mugwet," "ople tree," "tisty tosty," and "pincushion tree."

HEEDLESS HEADLESS HEART.

"Be calm, O heart!" I said,
"He's not for you!
What if his eyes
Are bluer than the blue
Of tropic skies?
What if his smiles
Are full of southern charm and Irish wiles?
Is that just cause for you
To leap and start—
To jump
And thump
And bump—
Be calm, O heart!"
But then he smiled at me
And bent
His head.
And my heart didn't heed
A word
I said!

From Florian to Melissa.

My thanks once more, this time for those haunting verses by Eleanore-Melissa on Decoration day and June 1 ["The Door of Darkness"]. It seems strange for one with such a feminine name to write so knowingly of men and war and death; while I, who know too well about those things, prefer to talk of gardens and flowers blooming. Therefore, to Eleanore-Melissa and all kindred voices I offer: The red of columbine on a wooded hillside, the white of Easter lilies, and the blue of long stemmed violets along a river bank.

Isn't this administration wonderful? They think of everything. We have the CCC to plant trees and the WPA to cut them down. Millicent Starr.

THE REPAIR OF HERNIA BY INJECTION.

OUR ancestors are to blame for many of our peculiarities—physical as well as mental. In smaller communities, where the life history of most of the inhabitants is known to all, it is not unusual to hear the remark: "He gets that from his father's side of the family."

The architecture of the abdominal wall is an inherited characteristic. If this structure is weak in one or both parents, a similar tendency may be observed in the offspring. If the head of the house is the victim of hernia the chances are that some one of the children will present the same affliction. It may be said safely that this defect is passed on from generation to generation, although males are more frequently affected than females.

Most large industrial organizations require a physical examination of prospective employes. Those suffering from hernia are not accepted until the condition has been taken care of. In this way business concerns protect themselves from the possibility of having to pay compensation for a disability—that may come on later—for which the class of work was not responsible. It can be understood, therefore, why it is wise for such individuals to have the disorder corrected. Furthermore, there is always danger of strangulation [kinking of the bowel] with resultant blocking of circulation.

Trusses are in no sense curative. If they fit properly they will keep a loop of intestine from dropping downward into a tight canal. For a long time surgery was the only accepted way in which the difficulty could be repaired. Of late years, however, the injection method has been revived, and a recent report evaluates the efficacy of this procedure over a five year period. Of a group of 573 patients only 236 were found to be adapted to this management. Of these the percentage of cures was 57, possible cure, 28, and failures, 15.

Harris and White, the authors, believe that the chief elements of success are: [1] Appropriate cases, and [2] the fitting of a proper truss, which is worn for a sufficiently long time after treatment. In their experience the simple, indirect inguinal hernia is the ideal type, the percentage of cures in this variety being 80. In addition, the reducible umbilical form in children responds well. These physicians suggest also that in the postoperative inguinals the process should be considered.

Poor risks include the aged, the infirm, the obese, those with weak tissues, hernias that are large or that have existed for a long time, femoral, most incisional, combined direct and indirect inguinals, and pure direct inguinals. If surgery is contraindicated for any reason, however, their opinion is that a course of injections followed by the continuous use of a truss is better than doing nothing at all. Young patients react more satisfactorily than old.

In their series, the average number of office visits was 23 over a five month period, although the average number of injections was 11. No deaths and no serious complications were noted. Several kinds of chemical irritants were employed and it should be stated that these drugs differ markedly from those utilized in the injection of varicose veins.

Taken as a whole, these authorities conclude that the results obtained by the injection method are less reliable than with surgery, although when the circumstances are favorable they consider the remedy far superior. They stress the fact that a skilled physician must be in charge.

It goes without saying, of course, that the question is still an open one. The surgeon consulted should be able to make the decision and the verdict must be honest and conscientious.

REST AND MEDICATION NEEDED.

Worried writes:

1. What is meant by a weak heart muscle?
2. What causes the nails on both hands to turn blue at times?

REPLY.

1. When the heart muscle cannot keep up with the demands put upon it by the body, certain symptoms appear—shortness of breath, swelling of the feet, etc. Rest in bed and proper medication are effective.
2. Some disturbance of circulation.

TRY HEAT AND MASSAGE.

Mrs. L. G. writes: A man of 85 complains continually of his fingers feeling "numb and asleep." He says they ache and tingle all the time. What causes this condition? Can it be relieved?

REPLY.

Numbness of the extremities is due to some disturbance of the nerve circulation. Make certain that the blood is in good condition as anemia may be responsible. Heat and massage should be helpful.

HOW MANY CESAREANS?

L. C. writes: How many Cesareans may a woman have?

REPLY.

There is no definite limit. Because every operation is attended with some risk, most physicians advise against more than two or three.

LIFE ESTATE.

Rock Island, Ill., June 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A and B are brothers. C is a sister. Their father left three farms, one to each son and one to the daughter to have use of as long as she lived. She passed away two weeks ago. She owned half of the live stock, etc., on said farm. She left no will or instructions of any nature whatsoever.

1. There are four children.
2. Can they hold this year's crop, which is already in the making? The brothers inherit the farm at her death. B. A.

1. We assume that you mean children of C.
2. A tenant for life, or his legal representative, is entitled to emblements, that is, the crops planted by him prior to the termination of the life estate, in all cases where the life estate is terminated by the act of God, as by the death of the tenant.

The right includes only such crops as are produced annually by the labor of the tenant, and which are planted before the life estate determines, and does not arise by reason merely of the preparation of the soil for planting. The right to emblements carries with it a right of ingress and egress to preserve the crop and gather it and carry it away.

ROAMING WITH COUSIN EVE.

Burlington, Wis., June 8.—

I walk in Persian gardens,
And rhumba in Peru.
With royalty I have a spree
Hobnobbing with who's who.

Yet I am just a mother
Who reads her TRIBUNE home;
Since F. D. taxes every cent,
With "Cousin Eve" I roam.

I drink in her descriptions
As one would sparkling wine;
So cast, dear Eve, your pearly words,
And do not mind the swine.

M. R. D.

AND PRAISE IN PROSE.

Chicago, June 9.—In reply to R. I. Ross in THE TRIBUNE regarding the column each Sunday written by "Cousin Eve," I would like to correct false and ignorant statements of this reader.

"Cousin Eve" is not the society editor. That department is in the hands of the efficient and well qualified India Moffett. So that R. I. Ross' suggestion that Cousin Eve "write sensible society notes for a change" is entirely out of order. Cousin Eve, as an intelligent public see her, is a columnist; a feature writer of travel or private social events. Her articles can be romantic, poetic, or fanciful if she so wishes, or can be written either of Americans, Europeans, or Asiatics. It is much more important to know that she is a writer of superb merit, from a literary standpoint — of which R. I. Ross may know little or nothing.

This is a day of criticism, of pettiness, and of small hates. Let us stop it, as Americans!

And to "Cousin Eve" — congratulations for many a fifteen minutes of cheerful enjoyment and a recognition of a fine mind and able pen.

MRS. FRANKLIN MILLER.

[In the published letter of R. I. Ross, his address, Douglas Hall, Montreal, Canada, was inadvertently omitted.]

ROPE TO HANG THEMSELVES.

Albion, Mich., June 9.—I can agree with all you said in your editorial, "The Constitution Is Dead," except the implication that there is no power to resurrect it. Do not forget that the citizens still have the power to amend the constitution so as to take away these usurped powers. I predict that the New Deal judges have rope enough now to hang themselves. Just wait a year or two and you will see some new constitutional checks by amendments to our constitution. In the meantime I hope the minority on the Supreme court, or at least some of them, will resign and actively advise the citizens just how to amend our constitution so as to curb the executive and preserve our liberties.

CARL A. ROSS.

CALLS IT A PUBLIC SERVICE.

Springfield, Ill., June 9.—As a citizen who is interested in the election of honest public officials and particularly so in the case of judges, I extend heartiest congratulations for the great public service that THE TRIBUNE has rendered to the people of the 12th district, judicial, in giving full publicity to the unethical conduct of Ex-Judge Edwin L. Wilson.

I am confident that Mr. Wilson would have been elected judge except for the vigilance shown by your paper in exposing his conduct. JOSEPH SAM PERRY.

State Representative.

PROSPERITY.

Chicago, June 8.—Last Sunday we went to dinner down on a beautiful Illinois farm. 'Twas nice to get a glimpse of prosperity again. We rode by fertile farm lands with row after row of sturdy green corn—it was early morning. Sheep, clean looking cows were winding their way through little lanes to green pastures, and I hoped some of Chicago's milk came from Illinois farms. Not a single place had a "run down" look. Most of them were freshly painted, and down by the gate sweet peonies were blooming. Crimson ramblers climbed over the doors and along the fences, also in full bloom.

Then we reached our destination—the most up-to-date farm I've ever seen. The birds were singing real songs. They hadn't heard this city swing music—let's hope they never do. The electric ice box was filled with pans of fresh milk, covered with thick yellow cream—we ate ice cream made of it. It was the kind of ice cream that makes a coating on the roof of your mouth, not this synthetic air filled kind. On the stove [a white enameled one] strawberries, fresh from the garden, were cooking, later we had them on our ice cream, along with the fried chicken, hot rolls, and green peas.

After dinner we visited the barns—one of them was almost as large as a steel mill. It was full of red, satiny looking prize cattle, that will soon be brought to the market. These barns were equipped with electric lights and running water. I looked around for a radio. I wondered what the farmer of fifty years ago would think of all this.

We visited some of the neighboring farms—they too looked modern and prosperous. Everybody seemed to be enjoying life to the fullest. And as we said good-by with many thanks for a perfect day, I thought no wonder they have well-filled barns and cellars and wonderful gardens, they have worked hard and they deserve all these lovely things.

ANNE JESTY ROGERS.

JUNCO NOT IN THE TREATY.

Highland Park, Ill., June 8.—THE TRIBUNE'S editorial entitled "Birds in a Pie" is to me both amusing and puzzling.

It has always been my impression that the English people consider nothing too good for their king and queen; therefore, if they see fit to serve them breast of slate colored junco in aspic, isn't that in keeping with their flare for royal pomp and splendor? And, after all, that is entirely their concern.

Possibly your editorial was based on your belief that the migratory bird treaty between Canada and the United States had been violated. Such, however, was not the case, as the order to which the junco belongs is not included in that treaty; therefore your reprimand is unwaranted. JAMES S. WHITE.

ATTEMPTED COERCION.

Chicago, June 8.—I want to express my appreciation of THE TRIBUNE'S recent article telling the inside story of the League of Women Shoppers.

Having had considerable trouble with the National Labor Relations board, we received one of these letters which, just as stated in your article, are intended to coerce manufacturers from telling their story before the Thomas committee, which is investigating the Wagner act.

Your article certainly shows up the fact that these New Deal appointees to the most important positions act in concert and are a front for the communistic organizations. The more that is understood by the public, the more opportunity we have of retaining some of our democratic institutions.

ROY C. INGERSOLL,

OVERSTEPPING THE LIMIT.

Chicago, June 8.—Any fair minded person who has followed your editorials is bound to reach the conclusion that they on the present administration and our great leader overstep all limits of decency and good taste.

Your opinions expressed from time to time are not only slanderous but usually contain numerous errors of fact, being overloaded with half truths.

Your paper reeks with personal hatred and suspicion of a man who will have the honor of seeing his name recorded as one of the country's greatest Presidents. He is loved by millions of people throughout the United States and I shall deem it a privilege to cast my vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt if he is nominated for President next year.

GILBERT C. LEONARD.

SOME ILLEGAL PARKING.

Chicago, June 8.—Why isn't something done about parking between curbs and safety islands? For instance, the Central avenue buses at the intersection of Foster, Milwaukee, and Central avenues.

The buses sometimes stand as far as 4 or 5 feet from the curb and block the southeast bound Milwaukee avenue traffic, forcing automobiles to pass the safety island on the left.

There is a city ordinance against parking between a safety island and the curb and also one against passing a safety island on the left. The bus drivers should be made to obey the law.

J. DUFFNEY.

OUR ENGLISH COUSINS.

Warrenville, Ill., June 7.—I note the spitework over the Clipper mail by our cousins over the water.

Or would James Farley be trying to hang something on them? He's charging 5 cents for a letter Jawn Bull can answer for 3. O, who in 'ell won the war, anyway? GROUCH.

D. C. STEPHENSON, KLAN SLAYER, TO GET NEW HEARING

Will Attack Conviction in Court Writ Saturday.

Noblesville, Ind., June 11.—[Special.]—D. C. Stephenson, former Indiana Ku Klux Klan chief, will be brought here from the Michigan City penitentiary next Saturday to allow him to file a motion for a writ of error, attacking the court proceedings in 1925 which sent him to prison for life as a murderer.

Hearing on the motion will not be possible until the October term of court, because Circuit Judge Cassius Gentry's docket is filled for the summer. Since last summer the state has sought to prevent a hearing on the motion for a writ of error, and once asked a change of venue.

Last week the state indicated it will withdraw opposition to filing of the motion in Judge Gentry's court.

Judge Gentry ordered Stephenson brought to Noblesville because he feels the defendant should be present when any action is taken in his case.

Stephenson was sentenced for the murder of Madge Oberholtzer. He entered the prison in November, 1925, and in the last fourteen years has tried every possible legal means to get out.

In November, 1935, the state obtained an order from the state Supreme court restraining a Circuit court from issuing a writ of habeas corpus. The high court then held that Stephenson's only procedure would be to obtain a new trial on a writ of error.

On March 19, 1938, counsel for Stephenson sought the writ of error, charging that Stephenson had been threatened and coerced when he was tried here before Circuit Judge Will M. Sparks, now a member of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago.

Judge Gentry, on last July 25, granted leave for Stephenson to file his application for a writ of error, but the state through various legal maneuvers has delayed a showdown.

Victim Tells of Disgrace.

Stephenson was indicted for murder in the summer of 1925 after Miss Oberholtzer had died of poison she took when in Hammond with Stephenson in March. Before her death, which she knew was certain within a short time, Miss Oberholtzer signed a statement accusing Stephenson of rape and brutal attacks while on a train en route from Indianapolis to Hammond.

Miss Oberholtzer said she had been invited to Stephenson's home and then forced at the point of a pistol to accompany him on the train trip. When they left the train and went to a Hammond hotel, she was held a prisoner by one of Stephenson's henchmen while Stephenson slept.

When Stephenson awoke she asked for money to buy a hat, having arrived in Hammond hatless and coatless. She used the money to buy poison, which she said she took because she had been disgraced. When she told Stephenson she had taken the poison, he rushed her back to Indianapolis by automobile and held her prisoner in his garage overnight without medical attention. She died two weeks later.

Defense Based on Suicide.

Stephenson's counsel argued that Miss Oberholtzer had committed suicide and that no murder had been committed, but Judge Sparks replied that it was for the jury to decide whether a virtuous woman holds her virtue dearer than life. Judge Sparks told the jury he believed murder could be committed indirectly and that suicide in some cases amounted to murder.

When the case finally went to the jury after thirty-three days, the jury after five hours' deliberation found Stephenson guilty.

Last winter Democratic members of the Indiana house of representatives adopted a resolution ordering the state clemency commission to consider a parole for Stephenson. Attorney General Omer S. Jackson ruled the commission was not bound by the order and the commission announced it would not break a standing rule against consideration of a parole until at least fifteen years of a life sentence had been served. Under Indiana law a life sentence is completed in twenty years, on good behavior.

Orates Way to Riches.

Stephenson now is 48 years old. He was 30 when he drifted into Indiana in 1921 and started organizing the Ku Klux Klan, through which in three years he rose to power enabling him to elect a mayor of Indianapolis, a governor of the state, and to dominate the legislature.

Stephenson came to Indiana from Texas, where he had become a protégé of Hiram W. Evans, then head of the klan. Previously he had been a printer. He served in the world war as a lieutenant in the 36th infantry. Evans had been attracted to him by his spell-binding oratory.

Indiana was virgin territory for the klan and Stephenson found that by appealing to men's love of mystery, pride in religion, and class hatred he could get rich quickly. Klan memberships were sold for $10, of which he kept $4. Robes were sold for as much as $10 and the profit was large.

Lives in Wild Luxury.

Stephenson spent his easy riches wildly. He built and furnished a fine home in Indianapolis, owned a yacht and a fleet of automobiles. He surrounded himself with a gang of strong-armed henchmen.

After the 1924 primary election in Indiana, which Stephenson controled, he defied Evans' orders concerning operation of the klan, and he and his followers set up an independent organization in Indiana. Evans had Stephenson tried by the klan on charges of gross immorality, and witnesses told about a long series of offenses.

Stephenson laughed and jeered Evans when he was banished from the national organization. He boasted about his power in Indiana and said he was the law. A few months later he was indicted for his crime against Miss Oberholtzer and his sentence to prison for life ended one of the most fantastic dictatorships ever foisted upon a state in the nation.

N. Y. HAS 2 HOUR ADVANTAGE OVER CHICAGO ON MAIL

[in 20 hours 9 minutes]. But it was only 21 minutes ahead of the straight mail postmarked at the same time. The fastest time east bound was recorded for the Chicago special postmarked at 2 p. m. This was 22 hours.

In the Washington, D. C., test reported previously, it was found that straight mail sometimes arrives ahead of special delivery letters posted at the same time. Postal officials explained that precautions taken to safeguard specials sometimes delay delivery.

Records for Tests.

5:00 p.	6:00 p.	4:55 p.	24 h 55 m

The fastest time recorded [20 hours 9 minutes] was at the theoretical speed of about 48 miles an hour from New York to Chicago. The poorest showing [26 hours 30 minutes] from this city to New York, was at the rate of about 37 miles an hour.

Value for Late Mailing.

The study of air mail disclosed that it is probably of greatest value to the business man who wishes to mail late in the day. He knows that letters postmarked in either city at 5 p. m will be delivered in the other early the following morning. The air mail record follows:

CHICAGO TO NEW YORK.

Mailed.	Postmarked.	Delivered.	Elapsed time.
10:00 a.	12:30 p.	7:20 a.	20 h 30 m
11:00 a.	1:30 p.	7:20 a.	19 h 20 m

4:00 p.	6:00 p.	7:30 a.	16 h 30 m
5:00 p.	6:00 p.	7:30 a.	15 h 30 m

It will be observed that New Yorkers may dispatch air mail an hour later than Chicagoans and still have it delivered by 7:30 a. m. The best time made between the two cities is about the same [Chicago to New York, 15 hours 15 minutes; New York to Chicago, 15 hours 30 minutes]. This is a theoretical speed for the elapsed time of about 49 miles an hour. The air line distance is a little more than 750 miles. The poorest time [22 hours 30 minutes] was from New York to Chicago at a theoretical speed of about 33 miles an hour.

Best Time for Letter.

By far the best time of the entire test was scored for a special delivery air mail letter postmarked in New York at 1:30 p. m. It was delivered in Chicago at 9:55 p. m. This was at a theoretical rate of 68 miles an hour. Chicago's best time to the east was made by a letter postmarked here at 2 p. m. It was delivered in New York at 12:20 a. m. Its speed was a little less than 67 miles an hour.

The slowest transmission of mail in this classification [20 hours 5 minutes] was from Chicago, cutting the speed rate for the elapsed time to about 37 miles an hour. The record follows:

CHICAGO TO NEW YORK.

Mailed.	Postmarked.	Delivered.	Elapsed time.
10:00 a.	12:30 p.	1:25 a.	14 h 25 m
11:00 a.	1:30 p.	12:20 a.	12 h 20 m
12:00 N.	2:00 p.	12:20 a.	11 h 20 m
1:00 p.	5:00 p.	10:05 a.	20 h 5 m
2:00 p.	5:00 p.	10:00 a.	19 h 0 m

NEW YORK TO CHICAGO.

11:00 a.	12:30 p.	9:55 p.	11 h 55 m
12:00 N.	1:30 p.	9:55 p.	10 h 55 m
1:00 p.	2:30 p.	3:02 a.	15 h 2 m
2:00 p.	3:30 p.	3:02 a.	14 h 2 m
3:00 p.	4:00 p.	3:02 a.	13 h 2 m
4:00 p.	6:00 p.	6:04 a.	18 h 4 m
5:00 p.	8:00 p.	6:04 a.	14 h 4 m

One of the conclusions to be drawn from the study of the air mail service is that only three hours are gained by air mailing in New York before 3 p. m. unless special delivery air mail is utilized. Straight mail postmarked as late as 1:30 p. m. is delivered here at 10:30 a. m.

The Chicagoan, however, who wants his letters delivered in New York before noon should use air mail or special delivery service, according to the showings made by the test mailings.

DOCTORS SEEK TO CUT NEWBORN INFANT DEATHS

Preserving the lives of premature babies is an important factor in reducing infant mortality. Because of this the American Congress on Obstetrics and Gynecology announced yesterday that two full sessions will be devoted to the subject at a meeting in Cleveland, O., next September.

Obstetricians estimate that about 5 per cent of all babies are prematurely born. More than half of all infant deaths occur in the neonatal period, which is within the first month of life. About two-thirds of neonatal deaths are among premature infants. Despite the advance in medical knowledge, the congress bulletin asserted, there has been little or no reduction in mortality of the newborn group.

Chicago was praised for recognizing the need of special treatment of prematurity. Yet in 1936 and 1937 of the 3,725 infant deaths, 1,547 were of premature babies. Of the total, 2,283 deaths occurred in the first two weeks of life and 1,401 of these were of premature babies.

PEACE EXPERTS AND SCIENTISTS TO MEET AT U. C.

World Leaders to Attend Two Symposiums.

The University of Chicago, within the next thirty days, will be host to two groups of internationally known authorities in widely separated fields. One is composed of specialists in the mysterious cosmic rays. The others are experts on the trend of world politics.

Dr. Arthur H. Compton, distinguished Chicago physicist and Nobel prize winner, will direct a cosmic ray symposium which will be held June 27-30. Dr. Compton was awarded the Nobel prize for his pioneering in the investigation of cosmic rays, the powerful electrical impulses which beat upon the earth like rain.

Four Other Nobel Winners.

Four other Nobel prize winners are on the program. They are Dr. Victor G. Hess, professor of physics, Fordham university; Dr. Werner Karl Heisenberg, professor of theoretical physics, University of Leipzig; Dr. Robert A. Millikan and Dr. Carl D. Anderson, California Institute of Technology.

Among the noted foreign physicists who are expected to attend are Dr. Pierre Auger of the Faculte des Sciences, Paris, often referred to as the Compton of France; Dr. J. Clay, University of Amsterdam; Dr. Bruno Rossi, University of Manchester; Dr. Walter Wilhelm Bothe, Kaiser Wilhelm institute, Heidelberg, and Dr. Alfred Banos Jr., National University of Mexico.

World Security Parley Topic.

What has happened to international security since the world war and why will be discussed by the other experts at the fifteenth institute of the Norman Wait Harris Foundation from July 5 to 10. Possible effects on the United States will be stressed.

Dr. Eduard Benes, former president of Czecho-Slovakia, now a visiting professor at the University of Chicago, will deliver three of the five public lectures. He will also preside at three of the ten conferences of qualified experts on world problems.

Another public lecture will be given by Dr. Rushton Coulborn, a former director of an English training school for diplomats. He will talk on "A Farewell to Leadership: Britain and the World, 1919-'39."

Ex-German Editor to Talk.

Quincy Wright, professor of international law at the university, will launch the institute with a round table conference on "Colective Security form 1920 to 1933." The Briand-Stresemann period will be discussed by Artur Feiler, former editor of the Frankfurter Zeitung.

Other speakers include Dr. Kenneth W. Colegrove of Northwestern university and Prof. Bernadotte E. Schmitt of the University of Chicago, a Pulitzer prize winner in history. The Harris Foundation was established in 1923 to promte a better understanding on the part of American citizens of other peoples of the world.

The 'Little Girl' Idea Is Grand on Swim Suits

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Beach sirens will look engagingly different this season. The newest crop of swim suits has been exposed to the "little girl" influence with some eye appealing results.

Such nursery materials as dainty sprigged cotton are used for ruffled two piece outfits, the narrow ruffles going around the flared shorts and the brassiere top.

Clear colors in yellow, blue, rosy pink, and green are printed in small floral designs for the two piece affairs. Crisp, smart checks, pin stripes, and precise plaids are used for the slim one piece models. These last are flared around the lower edge and boast as many as three rows of self material ruffles.

There also are all kinds of Spartan plain suits, with jersey as the popular fabric. Striped jersey makes some of the best looking one-piece outfits for the less than flawless streamlines. Shoulder bands are softly shirred, the skirts discreetly flared and fitted over waist and hipline with the panels using the striped material in contrasting chevron design. Solid colored jerseys are plentiful with a luscious new raspberry shade claiming the attention of the shoppers. Deep blue, bottle green, yellow, and white are other selections.

One-piece suits with matching thumb length coats are new successes. The suits are smooth affairs cut with a fitted midriff section and well designed shorts with jersey undershorts. The coat is a swanky new idea, usually lined with contrasting terry cloth. Seersucker makes smart ensembles. One gray, blue, and orange striped number has a coat lined with soft orange colored terry cloth.

Terry cloth beach robes are knockouts, for they are so designed that they can be used for both beach wear and as bath robes at home. Chartreuse, green, yellow, a vivid cyclamen, and whites all are going strong. The best model is the monk's robe with the elastic belt. The hood is attached with elastic.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. J. Wyatt of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Mary, to Roy Wilson, son of Mrs. R. M. H. Wilson and the late Dr. Wilson of Worcester, Cape Province, Union of South Africa.

Miss Wyatt, a graduate of Northwestern university, has spent the last year in the British Isles and the Union of South Africa. Toward the end of the year she will return to South Africa for her wedding.

Mrs. Young Reasner and Clyde W. Reasner of Hubbard Woods announce the engagement of their daughter, Ada Jane, to Harry Clark Kinne Jr. of Wilmette. Miss Reasner attended Sullins college, Bristol, Va., and the Evanston Art academy. Mr. Kinne was graduated from Colgate university, Hamilton, N. Y. No date has been set for the wedding.

The engagement of Miss Gertrude Hoffman to Ralph R. Barewin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Barewin of 1468 Winnemac avenue, has been announced by her brother, Adolph Hoffman of 5407 Wayne avenue. Mr. Barewin is a student at Lewis institute. The wedding will take place in December.

Ravinia Group to Give Fashion Show June 23

BY JUDITH CASS.

"I CAN'T GO. I have nothing to wear!" Such is the oft-repeated cry which controls feminine attendance at every function. The clear thinking organizers of the Ravinia Festival have decided that sartorial deficiencies would not serve as alibi this season, nor any season in the future.

The festival opens at Ravinia park on June 29. On June 23, at noon and again at 1:15 o'clock, debutantes and young matrons will stage a fashion show in the Marshall Field & Co. tearooms.

Mrs. A. Watson Armour III., Baroness Beck von Peccoz, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr., Mrs. Winston Elting, Mrs. Edgar Stanton Jr., Mrs. Byron Harvey Jr., Mrs. Prentice Porter, and Mrs. Kirk Cuthbert will model outfits to meet all requirements and tastes. Sport clothes will be featured for the Sunday afternoon concerts, which are often preceded by picnics on the beautiful Ravinia lawns. And the most dainty of formal attire will be shown for those who prefer to have dinner parties before attending the symphony concerts on Thursday, Friday, or Saturday nights.

Not only will the fashion show be interesting in itself, but it also will prove a splendid opportunity for the sale of Ravinia coupon books. All arrangements, therefore, are being made with the assistance of the suburban committee chairmen, Mrs. Walter R. Knupfer of Wilmette, Mrs. T. Weller Kimball of Kenilworth, Mrs. Ernst von Ammon of Winnetka, Mrs. Dwight C. Orcutt of Glencoe, Mrs. Henry Getz of Highland Park, Mrs. Ewing T. Webb of Lake Forest, Mrs. Gilbert Smith of Evanston, Miss Juliette Brown of Lake Bluff, and Mrs. Rush E. Hussey of Waukegan.

Wayne C. Taylors Give House Party at Yorktown.

Leslie Wheeler and Charles Spaulding are to be members of a house party this week at York Hall, the Wayne Chatfield Taylors' lovely old colonial home at Yorktown, Va. The two young men spent the week-end with Hobart Taylor in Washington, where they attended Rose Taylor's debut dinner Saturday night.

Earlier that day they and Miss Taylor's seven feminine house guests, including Miss Nancy Orr of Chicago, went to Miss Nancy Glover's debut tea and later that night they all went to Miss Joan Wilkinson's debut dance.

Yesterday Mme. Felipe Espil gave a luncheon at the Argentine embassy for Miss Taylor, Miss Glover, and Miss Wilkinson.

Friends of China Elect Mrs. MacNair President.

Mrs. Harley MacNair, who has been ill in Peking, China, was supposed to be on her way home by way of India at the time of the annual meeting of the American Friends of China on Friday when she was elected president of the group. She and Prof. MacNair are not expected back in Chicago until next fall, however.

The MacNairs had been with Mrs. William J. Calhoun in Peking. Mrs Calhoun is coming back to Chicago this summer. Her brother and sister-in-law, the William S. Monroes, are expecting her on a ship that will arrive in August. Mrs. Monroe is returning this week from Virginia.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

One way to kill two beauty birds with one pleasant stone in hot weather is to use an "ice lotion" that stimulates your skin gently and at the same time gives you as much of a pickup as an ice pack would—and without the messiness.

We are always wary of stimulants because we feel that at long distance the beauty writer is no judge of how much another woman's skin can take. For the most part, we prefer that the use of stimulating ointments or lotions be restricted to the professional treatment, where the operator can judge skin reactions more accurately.

This lotion, however, while it might make the very delicate skin tingle [and that doesn't hurt—it shows how much the skin needs a little waking up] can't possibly harm it. It steps up circulation and leaves the skin glowing rosily. It's particularly beneficial for the rather coarse, dingy skin that needs a dose of stimulation now and then to give it a healthy, fresh glow.

And, entirely aside from its pick-up qualities, this is strictly a hot weather honey. It acts like ice against the skin. First comes the surprising tingle, then a blessed sensation of icy coldness. It's a wonderful aid to comfort and its use needn't be restricted to the face. If you suffer a great deal from heat, wilting like a candle in the sun, you'll take great pleasure in using this on wrists, feet and the nape of your neck. It's a superb weapon against a heat wave!

Bear it in mind for any sick friends you may have. It's a tremendous help to them.

Young Soprano Shows Gains in Beethoven Aria

BY CECIL SMITH.

As assisting soloist in the Great Northern theater yesterday afternoon Izler Solomon and his Illinois Symphony orchestra called upon Paula Zwane, soprano, to sing the great scene and aria from Beethoven's "Fidelio." When Miss Zwane, a young Chicagoan of Polish descent, gave her debut recital early in 1938, she revealed a warm dramatic soprano voice of great potentialities, still in need of further training and discipline.

Yesterday Miss Zwane showed that she had traveled far in the last year along the road to professional competence and artistry. The "Fidelio" aria is so taxing that New York reviewers have not always been completely happy about even Kirsten Flagstad's performance of it.

It was hardly to be expected, therefore, that Miss Zwane's performance would be completely smooth, or fluent, or without effort. It is high enough tribute to say that few local sopranos could have met its physical requirements with more ease than she. Her grasp of its heroic style also brought the musical aspect of her performance onto a level with the purely vocal.

For Miss Zwane there is a very real future—in concert and oratorio assignments right away, and probably ultimately on the operatic stage. She needs greater flexibility in florid passages and greater roundness in the middle and lower voice. She also must satisfy herself that she does not tire too quickly for her approach to her high tones still sometimes sounds too labored and heavy. But her gifts are outstanding among younger Chicago singers. She should have a brilliant career if she keeps on working regularly and intelligently until she fully deserves it.

The single new item on the afternoon's program was Irwin Fischer's "Lament." Built on a four note rhythmic figure which is reiterated rather too much, the piece soon develops into a long lined emotional movement of more vigor and conviction than real originality. Although he seems to be seeking a slightly more dissonant style, Mr. Fischer, like so many other Chicago composers, has not yet found a way to free himself from the German romantic idiom he learned as his first musical gospel.

Mr. Solomon was in his usual good form in Ravel's suite, "The Tomb of Couperin," Mendelssohn's "Italian" symphony, and the waltz from Tschaikowski's Serenade for String Orchestra. The closing polka and fugue from Weinberger's "Schwanda" was, by exception, badly balanced and too noisy to sound clear.

Of the number, 1,969 are seniors and 348 graduate students.

C., delivered the baccalaureate address this afternoon and Dr. Joseph Cullen Blair, dean of the college of agriculture who is retiring this fall after forty-three years of service to the university, will deliver the commencement address tomorrow morning and Dr. Arthur Cutts Willard, president, will confer the degrees.

This year's graduating class is the largest in the history of the university. More than 200 degrees were awarded at commencement exercises for the Chicago departments—the colleges of medicine, pharmacy, and dentistry—on Friday, making a total of more than 2,500 degrees awarded this spring.

Good-bye To Vienna

By Olga L. Rosmanith

(Copyright: 1939: By News Syndicate Company, Inc.)

NO MORE AUSTRIA.

The date was already important to Marian because it was her twenty-first birthday. Friday, March 11, 1938. Far away from home but not homesick. Franz Grunewald was sitting beside her in the café. A café where one could be relaxed, peaceful and happy because of its clublike atmosphere. Gemütlichkeit was more important than hurrying the customers away. Because this was the city of homelike cafés where every one talked for hours and read the newspaper free. This was Vienna.

Tonight the universal topic of conversation was Schuschnigg's stirring speech in parliament announcing Austria's permanent independence and his overwhelming personal triumph. And then the radio began to speak.

Chatter ceased. Smiles faded from faces. People stared at each other, eyes wide, and alarmed. What lay behind the ominous announcement? The plebiscite had been postponed.

Marian looked at her companion's face and saw the youth quenched in it, leaving the bronzed young features worn and old. "What is it?" she whispered under the sudden roar of exclamatory voices.

Franz pushed the table from them and got up. "Let's get out of here," he said abruptly.

Outside it was balmy and delicious with false premature spring. A soft veil of green filmed the black tracery of the trees in the ubiquitous city gardens. The café was in the Alserstrasse in the region of the Allgemeines Krankenhaus, the great city hospital. They walked up towards the university, in tense mutual silence. As they neared the Rathaus Platz Franz Grunewald spoke. "I don't know what it means," he said heavily, "but I think it means the end of everything."

Marian's heart began to beat heavily. The words did not frighten her so much as the unfamiliar tone in the young man's voice. She slipped her arm through his in her frank friendly manner. "O no—nothing is ever the end of everything. What can possibly make you say that?"

"Hitler. This is the end of Austria as a country. That's what it means. Hitler is coming in."

They heard the voices before they turned into the Rathaus Platz beyond which lay their home. It was like a chorus—a syncopated chorus of voices trained to their hoarse chant. Heil Hitler—Heil Hitler—Hitler—Hitler—Hitler.

There was a great roar from the crowd——

Marian drew closer to Franz. She was not afraid, but she was strangely uncomfortably excited. She was comforted by the contact of his lean, swinging strong body. He pressed her arm to his side. "Perhaps we'd better go 'round the back. Looks like some trouble brewing."

"O no, Franz. This is history. We mustn't miss it. Let's go see."

Not even the rough bands of youths surging through the Vienna streets the last few days shouting Hitler had prepared them for this astonishing sight. Orderly companies of young Nazis were arriving rhythmically one by one waving a forest of red banners punctuated by the black swastika on its white circle. They ranged themselves methodically on the terraced Rathaus steps, watched by a silent and bewildered crowd.

The crowd seemed to thicken by magic as people poured in. The statues of philosophers and musicians were being used as grandstands, boys clung like monkeys to the massive lamp standards and the creaking branches of the Rathaus garden trees. A procession with torches filed in from the ring and massed its high held moving flames before the center tower lighting the scene with a lurid light. Franz lifted Marian with him on to a park bench and put his arm around her.

She saw his face in the red glow. He was not thinking about her. He was watching the spotlight that was moving over the towers and galleries looking for something. It found what it sought. Two boys appeared high up on a gallery waving a Nazi flag. There was a great roar from the crowd and then the voices rose in a chorus like surf thundering on the shores. Deutschland Ueber Alles. Marian heard the strangled groan in Franz's throat with her heart rather than her ears, because where he was concerned, she knew almost everything.

"Franz," she said soundlessly. But he heard her. For a moment they looked deep in each other's eyes seeing things which had lain deep in them come to the surface. Flames flickered over their faces and the shadows of smoke. He said—"the terrible thing is that I love you."

Now the groups of Nazi youths were dispersing and the torch bearers were thinning out into a procession to march endlessly around the ring. Franz and Marian had no choice but to move with the crowd that passed their home in the Reichsratstrasse. Franz held her arm tightly protecting her from pressure. They were aware now of the uncanny city silence. The good natured Viennese police were in evidence, but they hung back, impervious to insult and friendly overture alike. They were as ignorant of who controled the city at this moment as the people who besieged them with passionate questions.

The news vendors broke through the thinning crowds and thrust the single sheet special edition into their hands. Franz looked at it under the street lamp. He said bleakly—"no more Austria."

He opened the little door cut into the great entrance door of the apartment house and drew Marian inside. She was weak with the emotion of her happiness and the strange terror of the night. "You say that, Franz, as if you were saying 'no more life'."

"It's the same thing, Marian."

"Franz! Have you forgotten what you just said?"

"No. I was a madman to say it. To complicate our lives. You couldn't live here now. I couldn't ask you to share my life. When you leave Vienna you will leave it forever."

"O no, Franz."

"Yes, Marian. You of all people. Outspoken, daring, independent, free——"

The hausmeister limped down from the mezzanine window to see who was there and what they were doing. Franz cut his loquacity short. The small glass and iron elevator waited for them, but the same thought occurred to them both. They could be alone a little longer. They began to climb the stairs.

The Von Plasy apartment was at the top, on the fourth floor. The occupants of the apartment below were away. Franz paused in his steady climb and drew Marian beside him on the stairs. They sat together indifferent to the chill of the cold stone. "I don't know what made me tell you, Marian. It's hopeless now. And in any case I'd meant to wait."

"Why is it hopeless, Franz? You've no politics, have you? It isn't as if you were known as anti-Nazi."

"I am, of course—whether they know it or not. But I must be loyal to Onkel Josef. He's been more to me than a father."

Marian remembered everything with a pang that went through her like the thrust of a sword. She was no fool to imagine that any possible slight to the Nazi régime would be overlooked. And Prof. von Plasy's recent book, exposing the fallacy of Hitler's race theories, was no mere slight. For less than that great thinkers in Germany had been martyred in the name of treason. He would surely be expelled from the university if nothing worse. Marian pushed her fears from her in her desire to comfort Franz. She put her hand over his. "Don't worry, dear. Lots of the things we die for in advance turn aside and never happen."

Franz lifted her hand and pressed it desperately against his lips, and then laid it against his cheek as if the touch were necessary to him. "I wish I could think that, too, even for a few blessed minutes. But I've studied this thing. What's been going on in Germany. It's got to be faced. It means the old man's doom."

The River Bend Feud

By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright: 1939: By William MacLeod Raine.)

INSTALMENT XLIX.

TWO ROMANCES.

Hilda Nielsen put her hand over the mouth of the telephone and turned to her husband. "It's from Mrs. Raleigh at the River Bend ranch," she said. "Inviting the boys and Olga to come over there and stay for two or three days."

Carl Nielsen said "No!" instantly and explosively.

His wife said into the telephone, "May we call you back in a few minutes, Mrs. Raleigh? The children are outside."

"Why do you have to call her back?" Nielsen wanted to know. "Why couldn't you refuse?"

"Because we're not going to refuse, Carl," she told him. "Ever since I married you we have been on the edge of a feud with them. I'm not blaming you, for you have done more to keep peace and support the law than any man on either side. But we're done with that unfriendliness now. The Raleighs have been fair—even generous. You said so yourself. We're not going to act sulky when they ask the children over."

Nielsen was astonished at Hilda. This was the longest speech he had ever heard her make. Not more than twice before had she put her foot down firmly with an ultimatum, but he remembered that she had made it stick both times.

Hilda decided she might as well launch her thunderbolt now as later. "Olga is a woman now, Carl. She is older than we were when we married."

"She's in love with William Raleigh and he with her. He's a fine lad, even if he had been a little wild. If he is the man she wants, Carl, we're not going to stand in her way." She spoke gently, but her gentleness did not deceive him. Hilda meant to fight for her daughter's happiness.

He did not yield easily, for his pride was involved.

"We'll lose Olga," he predicted.

"We couldn't lose Olga. Nobody in the world could take her from us. I thought you knew her better." She spoke placidly with an assurance her husband really shared.

He threw up his hands. "I want the girl to be happy. If it must be this way, it must."

"Is father willing for us to go?" she asked quietly.

"He wants you to do what will make you the happiest."

So the younger Nielsens went to the big house at the River Bend. Bill took the boys hunting and Olga stayed with the women. She and Joan took a great liking to each other. They had long talks together and came at last to the subject that interests all women. Joan did most of the talking, because it was Olga's nature to say little and also she was not yet openly engaged.

"You don't marry a man for nice logical reasons," Joan mused. "Jeff told me I am so bossy nobody but a docile yes-man ought to marry me. But you know what he is—hard and strong and independent. He wouldn't care tuppence if I had all the money in the world. I'll live the way he says and where his work takes me. I want him for my mate, and nothing else matters."

"Yes," Olga agreed.

She thought of Bill, who all her life she had been taught to think of as a wild and profligate youth. He was nothing of the kind, of course. But he had followed a very different way of life from her. Yet she knew they would adapt themselves to each other's habits because of their love. It would not even seriously matter if he did have much more money than she had been used to. She could accustom herself to spending more freely just as she had done to saving.

"They are awf'ly fond of each other and will be very happy, I think. Not as happy as we shall, of course, because nobody in the world will be that."

He laughed at and with her. Though he might mock her, he was of the same opinion as she. His heart lifted to think of all the splendid years through which they would march side by side.

Dressed up ice cubes look very pretty in summer drinks. Pale green or strawberry colored cubes in lemonade, mint leaf cubes in limeade, grape juice cubes in chilled pineapple juice—these are lovely contrasts, and add to the appeal of those tall, long glasses of refreshment for warm days.

Pieces of fruit frozen in ice cubes are attractive, too. Raspberries, strawberries, cherries, slices of peach frozen in plain or tinted water make fresh looking adornments for fruity summer drinks.

Fruitades taste better if they are sweetened with sugar sirup rather than with granulated sugar. This is because sugar sirup blends immediately with cold liquids, and sugar is slow to go into solution. Simple sugar sirup may be made in quantity and stored in a covered fruit jar, to be used as needed.

SIMPLE SUGAR SIRUP.

Combine 1 cup sugar and ¾ to 1 cup water and boil the mixture for five or six minutes. Pour into a bottle or jar, cover and store, to use as needed in sweetening beverages.

LEMONADE OR LIMEADE.

Fill each tall glass a fourth to a half full of ice or ice cubes, add three tablespoons lemon or lime juice, fill with water, and add sugar sirup to sweeten to the desired degree.

PINEAPPLE LEMON OR LIMEADE.

Grape Rickey.

[Serves 12.]

1 quart water
¼ cup lemon or lime juice
1 cup orange juice
Sugar sirup to sweeten

Combine ingredients and pour over cracked ice in tall glasses. Or fill glasses almost full and add an ice cube or two.

WATERMELON DELIGHT.

Combine equal parts pineapple juice and grape juice. Cut balls of watermelon with ball cutter and drop them into the combination while it chills for several hours. Remove all but a few of the balls, using those remaining to garnish the drinks. During the chilling the beverage will absorb watermelon flavor.

The same thing may be done with cantaloupe or honeydew balls.

TUTTI-FRUTTI-ADE.

[Serves Four.]

Combine 1 can cherry juice, 1 can pineapple juice, and the juice of two or three oranges. Add, at the last minute, a bottle of ginger ale and float maraschino cherry ice cubes in each drink. No sweetening is needed for this beverage.

CHERRY-APRICOT DRINK.

New Type Sports Costume

OUTFIT IN JUNIOR SIZES.

Play days are busy days, and summer wardrobes should be as versatile as possible. Something brand new in the world of sports costumes is presented today—a two piece suit and, under it, a one piece garment.

The blouse of the suit should be striped or checked as contrast to a plain color skirt. The original is fashioned of red and white striped piqué, with the skirt of plain white piqué. The feminine looking sun suit beneath it is of white piqué, too. It has broad shoulder straps, and the back is a moderate décolletage. The garment is well fitted and buttons in the back. The bodice is snug, the waist trim, and the shorts are flared.

If you wish, wear the jacket and skirt as a summer costume for informal social events, just as you would any other seasonal dress. With the play suit underneath, however, it is a costume ideal for sports, both active and spectator, and a busy, crowded day in the country.

Style No. 2843 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19. Size 15 requires 1⅝ yards of 39 inch material for the play suit; 2 yards of 39 inch fabric for the skirt, and 1¼ yards for the jacket.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

According to CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Your column of May 3 carried a hand recently played by myself in partnership with my 'better half.' You rather forcefully upheld my wife's side of the ensuing argument and I've been living in the well known doghouse ever since. From the numbes of telephone calls and comments of friends, I am sure that every person in Wisconsin read your column of May 3.

"Perhaps you may assist me in opening the door of the doghouse a wee bit by your comment on the following hand, which I had the good fortune to play against my 'better half' in a rubber game. I was very fortunate to find the cards laid favorably and was doubly pleased that my good wife, for a moment, was behind the eight ball.

"I was South [North-South vulnerable] and reached the contract of six no trump. West opened the heart ten and I won with the ace. The club jack was taken by East [my wife]. A heart was returned, which I will grant appears to be the best exit. Play of the club ace disclosed the bad break in clubs. Four spade tricks caused East embarrassment and, I might add, great pleasure to myself. East, having discarded a heart on the fourth spade trick, was forced on the lead to the heart king to choose between discarding a diamond from the king-jack or unguarding the clubs. She decided to discard a diamond. The club queen was led, followed by the finesse in diamonds, which held, and my ace then dropped the king, fulfilling a rather ambitious contract. "Gerald C. Maloney, Madison, Wis."

Well, there is one thing I will say for Mr. Maloney, and that is that he is a darned good sport! I did give him a terrible raking-over in the previous article—so bad, in fact, that the local newspaper ran the following news item on its front page: "Hereafter when Gerald C. Maloney . . . criticizes his wife's bridge playing she can just pick up a copy of today's newspaper and smile, for today Ely Culbertson, in his column, backs Mrs. Maloney's bridge playing unqualifiedly against Mr. Maloney's." Obviously, Mr. Maloney has grinned and "taken" it, and now here's a little sunshine for him:

Mrs. Maloney [East] shouldn't have returned a heart after winning a trick with her club king. At this point she should have put her husband squarely on the spot by returning the diamond jack. Now declarer would have to decide whether to take the diamond finesse or to play for a drop of the ten of clubs [the nine already having appeared from West]. It would be quite a dilemma for him and he could not be criticized for guessing wrong. East's actual heart return allowed declarer to try out the club situation before deciding on the diamond finesse.

The Stage

Orson Welles' twenty-three minute "streamlined" version of William Archer's "The Green Goddess," to be seen on the stage of the Palace theater through Thursday, has several well known Broadway players in its cast. Mr. Welles himself, of course, plays the main rôle. Among the supporting players are Stephen Ker-Appleby, seen here last winter in "Bachelor Born"; Derek Fairman, Susan Fox, A. J. Herbert, and William Allen, stage manager of the Mercury theater and right hand man to Mr. Welles in all of his productions.

The baby has been named Mary Elizabeth.

Members of the Italy America society have an interesting morning to which to look forward, for on Thursday at 11:30 o'clock Louis Francini, Stiano Braggiotti, and Corrado Vaselli will give a musical program. Louis is a 4 year old genius of the violin; Mr. Braggiotti, who is playing with John Barrymore in "My Dear Children," has a pleasing baritone voice, and Mr. Vaselli is a tenor. Mr. Vaselli, Mr. Braggiotti, and Louis' father, Nathan J. Francini, all are natives of Florence, Italy. The program will be given at the Arts club, which is closing that evening for the summer.

Sperlings Invite Friends to Meet Gen. and Mrs. Ford.

The Evanston Junior league will hold its annual spring luncheon today at the Glen View Country club. There will be swimming before luncheon, if it is warm, and golf following.

The miniature rooms displayed in the recent Junior league show of fine arts at the Arts club will be on exhibit at the Little Traveler in Geneva today, tomorrow, and Wednesday. Next Monday morning at 11:30 Mrs. Arthur Byfield is going to talk about "Summer Songs and Summer Sauces" at the Little Traveler. Standing and Sitting Erectly Are Factors in Preserving Health

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Probably no other parental admonition aimed at a child is more often repeated than the command to sit and stand straight.

What is in mamma's mind with her erect posture command is its cosmetic value, although she may be vaguely aware that leaders, even small ones, command attention because they stand and walk well. Your slump-postured child is a follower inveriably.

Dr. Alvia Brockway, writing in a current health magazine, says:

"Look into the face of the child who habitually sits and stands with his head and shoulders slumped forward and his back curved like an old man's. Usually you see a tired, drawn expression. The fact is, he is tired and he slumps because it is too much effort to sit erect!"

In some instances, says the physician, the reason is not hard to find as to why the child is not getting enough rest. But there may, too, be such a physical handicap for the child's tired demeanor as enlarged adenoids, diseased tonsils or sinuses, faulty vision, or poor elimination.

Because the weight on bones and ligaments is misplaced when the body is not held erect, physical malformations may develop such as bowlegs, knock knees, and flat feet, we are told.

Any youngster would be delighted to receive a little lamp that is musical. Concealed in the painted wooden base, which is enameled light blue and has pictures of Donald Duck gallivanting around it, is a music box which you wind with a key at the back.

This lamp has a simple, white shade, is about 10 inches tall, and is not at all expensive. Other lamps for children's rooms have quaint carved wooden figures for the base, but these have no tunes with them.

Musical alarm clocks may be less of a jolt than the ordinary kind, but H. Barry McCormick and Philip R. Clarke of Hinsdale are wakened by gradually intensifying strains of radio recordings. Mr. McCormick has in an upstairs closet and Mr. Clarke under his bedside table a time switch used to regulate the radio circuit. The switches are set to turn their radios off after they have gone to sleep to music, and to wake them in the morning. A calendar setting makes it possible to eliminate the music on Sunday mornings when longer sleep is desired. . . .

Good Morning!

KIND: Fluffy conceit. Comedy that is not particularly comical.

ACTING: Too good to be virtually wasted—which it is.

DIRECTION: Better than the story.

SCENERY and SETS: Picturesque. I think the Swiss backgrounds are faked—but they're purty all the same.

PHOTOGRAPHY: Excellent.

DIALOG: Blah—but well delivered.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Friday's audience seemed to enjoy "Bridal Suite." [No sense to the title.] Especially were they intrigued by some precarious lovemaking on an Alp.

See you tomorrow.

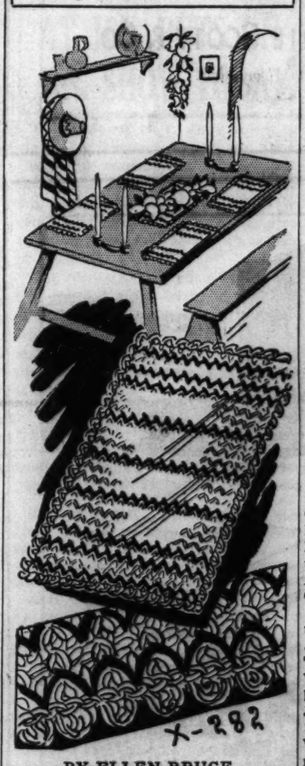
Luncheon Set in Candlewick Is an Easy Crochet Job



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Candlewick cotton is enjoying a tremendous vogue for bedspreads, pillows, knitted sweaters, etc., and is now invading the crochet field in the form of colorful luncheon doilies. Only simple crochet stitches are necessary, since there is great beauty in the cotton. It is available in a variety of colors which match the popular fiesta tableware.

For instructions in crocheting the striped candlewick luncheon set, No. X-282, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Day in Country Draws Throng to Barrington

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Yesterday's showers were no surprise to any one who had helped to arrange Barrington's "Day in the Country," or who was planning to drive out for it. Your true devotee of the country knows it always happens that way.

It was difficult to tell just how many had come in spite of the rain. Several hundred lunched or dined at the Barrington Hills Country club, and others were served less formally in the lunchroom at the attractive little Barrington Country Day school, which benefitted through proceeds of the day.

But this was, doubtless, only a fraction of the crowd that sped up one lane and down another in search of a musical cow barn, a miniature field trial, a prize dairy herd, a dog kennel, or any half dozen of the 65 farms and country places opened for the day.

The musical cow barn probably created the greatest sensation. Albert C. Levis, Chicago business man, has made a hobby of his fine cows and draft horses. He discovered that the cows reacted favorably to music, especially at milking time, and so loud speakers have been rigged up in his handsome barns, and music is broadcast regularly. The cows prefer classical music. They also prefer being milked by hand, and when this was thoroughly established recently, Mr. Levis' fine mechanical milking equipment all went into the discard.

Several city visitors got almost too much of a thrill out of the miniature field trials staged by Martin J. Hogan and his champion hunting dogs. One little girl clung to her mother and cried, "O, don't let them shoot the dog," and a woman exclaimed indignantly, "How dreadful to shoot poor helpless birds!" As a matter of fact, she need not have worried.

It is pheasants' nesting season, and rather than disturb wild birds, Mr. Hogan tethered a tame pheasant in the field, and let his setter flush the bird, and then fired a blank cartridge. The show was the perfect coördination between the dog and the trainer as they worked together, the dog stopping stock still at each signal from Mr. Hogan until he got fresh instructions.

Among the many charming places on view was the George Henneberrys' new one story house on a wooded knoll above one of the many small lakes that fill almost every hollow in this hilly area. The approach was past a real farmyard through rolling fields of daisies to the low white shingled house, set among terraced gardens and low white walls, with a large swimming pool on a lower level.

Barrington's "Day in the Country" should be repeated, if only to give visitors a chance to see the fifty-odd places even the most strenuous didn't have time to see yesterday. The idea is worthy, too, of being copied by other sections around Chicago.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 11.—Byron Nelson, 27 year old professional from Reading, Pa., and Craig Wood, the 37 year old hard luck champion from Mamaroneck, N. Y., are likely to become registered voters from Philadelphia before they decide who is the 43d national open golf champion.

Tomorrow morning they will argue another eighteen holes as the result of tying with 68 today, one under par for the Spring Mill course of the Philadelphia Country club, in the first round playoff for the biggest prize in American golf. They will not have the company of Denny Shute of Huntington, W. Va., who was tied with them at 284 for the regulation seventy-two holes of the tournament last night. Shute needed a 76 in today's extra inning duel.

First Double Playoff Since 1931.

The slender, Texas born Nelson and the handsome Wood thus become the first men since 1931 to enter a double playoff for the open crown. The second dead heat of the show was brought about at the 558 yard eighteenth hole, the same hole on which Sam Snead might have won it in orthodox time last night. Snead took an eight there. This afternoon Nelson dropped a seven foot putt for a birdie four. Wood, after a wild second shot which struck a spectator in the head and ricocheted into the fairway, had a six foot putt for a victory, but it broke away and once more he was forced into a playoff.

The galleryite who fielded the No. 4 wood second shot which Wood made was Robert Mossman, operator of the driving range at which Snead, Shute, Gene Sarazen, Johnny Revolta, Ralph Guldahl, and others gave an exhibition last Tuesday evening. He was carried off the course on a stretcher and taken to the Bryn Mawr hospital, where he was said to be recovering tonight.

On in Orthodox Two.

All three were on the 450 yard first green in an orthodox two shots, Wood getting down from a position 50 feet away and near the back edge, Nelson and Shute using two strokes from 35 feet. The first bogey of the threesome was chalked up against Shute, when he elected to take an iron against the wind on the 234 yard second, while Wood and Nelson chose woods. Shute's tee shot landed in the trap to the right, and he had to settle for a four. Wood, just off the green with his drive, dropped a

AMERICANS BEAT BRITONS, 9 TO 4; RETAIN POLO CUP

Westbury, N. Y., June 10.—[Special.]—A hard riding American polo team scored five goals in the last four chukkers to defeat Great Britain's best in the second game of the International cup series, 9 to 4, today. By scoring their second straight triumph in the three match series, the Americans made certain that the historic Winchester cup will remain on this side of the Atlantic, at the same time running their string of consecutive conquests to twelve since they regained the trophy in 1921.

The third match will be played next Sunday, but today's result makes it nothing more than an exhibition.

Britons Weaken in Second Half.

Although Tommy Hitchcock and Michael Phipps accounted for seven of the winners' nine goals between them, the match was in no sense a personal triumph for either. Teamwork was the theme of the American team's entire attack and defense with Stewart Iglehart and Winston Guest, the other members of the ensemble, receiving as much credit as did their high scoring mates.

The British, with Gerald Balding playing brilliantly, held the Americans to a 4 to 3 margin in the first five chukkers, but the superior teamwork and harder shots of the cup defenders made the balance of the match something of a parade. Phipps broke through for two goals in the sixth chukker, one on a pass from Hitchcock, and Hitchcock pounded in three goals in the seventh to make the victory certain. Eric Tyrrell-Martin of the courageous Britons received a round of applause in the final chukker when he scored from the 60 yard line.

Guest, Phipps Open Scoring.

Iglehart, who scored one goal today and who was the individual star of the first match, and Guest teamed on defense to break up many charges by the British and then set up the ball for telling shots by Hitchcock or Phipps.

Two quick goals by Guest and Phipps gave the Americans a first chukker lead which they never relinquished. The Britons, however, held them in check in the second chukker and limited their scoring to four goals through the next four.

THE recent ruling of Commissioner K. M. LANE TECH WINS TWO CREW TITLES IN RIVER REGATTA

BY EDWARD PRELL.

A group of huskies from Lane Tech kept an undefeated record of two years intact by winning the senior and junior Chicago river interscholastic rowing championships, major events of the first annual Blade and Paddle regatta held yesterday in weather that would have been more suitable for football.

It might have been a different story in the senior race but for identical mishaps to the shells manned by youngsters from Amundsen and Lake View. As the two shells were being stroked from the regatta headquarters, the Naval armory, to the starting line inside the new lock on the Chicago river, an oar lock broke on each. The shells were forced to return to the armory for repairs. By the time they came back to the starting line the race was over.

Waller Presses Lane.

Referee Charles Miner explained that under the rules of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen he had no other recourse than to start the race without the other two contestants. As it was, the start was delayed for several minutes.

Lane's seniors had all the competition they desired from the determined Waller youngsters, who hung close to the champions until Lane put on a concerted pull just before reaching the Michigan avenue bridge. Lane was a length ahead as they came to the Outer Drive bridge, but Waller had caught up as they emerged into the open. At The Tribune warehouse Lane began pulling ahead, but had less than a length lead at the Michigan avenue bridge. It increased this advantage in a driving finish. The Waller lads, showing good sportsmanship in defeat, quickly gave a cheer for their conquerors, which was lustily returned. Lane's time was 5:37 6-10.

It Was a Little Chilly.

The temperature was in the low 60s and a brisk wind from the northwest chilled the spectators and contestants. All the races were rowed directly into the wind. Aside from the crippling of the two prep shells, there were no mishaps. The regatta was sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in coöperation with the Chicago park district and various boat clubs.

After the regatta, prizes were presented to the winning contestants on the quarterdeck of the U. S. S. Wilmette, docked at the Naval Reserve armory. Presentation was made by Henry O'Hare of the Chicago Park district, representing George Donoghue, superintendent. The Lane seniors were awarded a 22 inch trophy which for permanent possession must

Russell Rescues Dean; Cubs Win, 5-3, After Losing 1st, 4-3

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 11.—The Cubs split even in their first legal doubleheader of the year today, losing the first game to the Bees, 4 to 3, behind Claude Passeau, and taking the six inning second game for Jack Russell, 5 to 3, after Dizzy Dean was knocked out in a three run second inning blast. The second game was called in the seventh inning in compliance with the Sunday closing law, after some elaborate Cub stalling because the Bees had scored two runs and had the tying run on second and the winning run on first.

The pair of games ended the Cubs' second eastern trip, a jaunt on which they won seven and lost seven, despite the fact they dropped four out of five from last Monday through Friday.

In the first match Passeau was supported by one run, Gabby Hartnett's No. 5 homer, prior to the ninth when they made two runs to advance within one of a tie and had the bases full when the game ended. Manager Casey Stengel and Catcher Al Lopez of the Bees were banished for the day during the ninth inning.

Bees Are Generous.

The Cubs won the second game with considerable largess from the Bees, four of their six runs being unearned. Bill Herman scored the earned runs, the first and last counters of the game. All the runs off Dean were earned, as were two off J. Russell in the seventh.

In the second game the Cubs were breezing along near closing time with what appeared to be an easy 6 to 3 triumph. They had scored a run in the first of the seventh to make victory seem certain. With the clock

BASEBALL, SPRY AT 100, PUTS ON BIG SHOW TODAY

Cooperstown, N. Y., June 11.—[Special.]—In Cooperstown, where Abner Doubleday marked out the first diamond one hundred years ago, baseball will reach the peak spot in its centennial celebration with the presentation tomorrow of the Cavalcade of Baseball.

The National Baseball museum and the Hall of Fame will be formally dedicated, the evolution of the game from "town ball" to its present status will be dramatized in pageant form at the christening of Doubleday field, Postmaster General James A. Farley will sell the first baseball centennial commemorative stamp at the Cooperstown postoffice, and diamond celebrities will throng to the birthplace of the game.

The eleven living members of the Hall of Fame will attend. They are Nap Lajoie, George Sisler, Cy Young, Tris Speaker, Hans Wagner, Connie Mack, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Eddie Collins, Walter Johnson, Ty Cobb, and Babe Ruth.

K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, will receive the key to the building from Mayor Rowan Spraker of Cooperstown and Theodore Lettis, chairman of the committee that erected the building. Ford Frick and William Harridge, respective presidents of the National and American leagues, will cut the red, white, and blue ribbons across the doors.

These ceremonies will begin at noon and at 3 p. m. the Cavalcade of Baseball will begin at Doubleday field. Boys of Cooperstown High school, in period costume, will show how the game was played a hundred years ago.

The evolution of the game from children's play to an adult sport will be portrayed by teams of soldiers from Governor's Island. Dressed in garb of the 1850s, when Doubleday's original rules were in vogue, they will show the change in code from soaking the runner with the ball to putouts at the bases, as well as the first uses of bases instead of fence posts for goals.

The third act of the cavalcade will be a three inning game involving modern stars. Each of the sixteen major league clubs are sending two players to Cooperstown and the members of the Hall of Fame will act as managers for this segment of a game. They will choose up sides in sandlot style and pick their teams regardless of club or league affiliations.

KUHEL'S HOMER AIDS LYONS IN SIXTH STRAIGHT

Error by Kreevich Hampers Dietrich.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Joe Kuhel stepped in yesterday to settle an argument between two old men of the pitching mound in the front half of a double-header in Comiskey park. With a ninth inning homer Kuhel decided that the White Sox, among them the 38 year old Ted Lyons, were victors, 7 to 5, over Ol' Man Mose Grove, 39, and his Boston Red Sox associates. But in the other half of the program, principally because of a lone error, the Chicagoans were beaten down, 4 to 3.

Lyons attained his sixth straight triumph in the first battle only after a hazardous expedition in which he was twice confronted by the possibilities of defeat. Boston had him pinned by 2 to 0 in five innings and Ol' Man Mose was running smoothly. But his foes suddenly tripped him for four runs in the fifth, a lead which Lyons enjoyed only until the next inning, when Jim Tabor exploded a homer with two on base. Then Dykes' battlers and 10,000 spectators, who defied the rainy weather, had to wait until the eighth for the tying run, Kuhel's bat also aiding in this pleasing venture.

Joe Is Poison to Grove.

Manager Joe Cronin, of all fellows, was responsible for creating the situation that finally engulfed his left handed patriarch and gave Kuhel his chance to deliver the knockout punch. Manager Joe cut loose an errant peg to Foxx on Tresh, who led off. Lyons contributed the customary sacrifice and Ollie Bejma would have stolen the hero garb right then and there if Tabor, after a somersaulting stop of a hard grounder, hadn't recovered in time to throw him out. Then Kuhel, with the count 2 and 2, spanked his fifth homer into the right field seats.

The unfortunate workman of the second affair was Bill Dietrich, who, when relieved after seven innings, had yielded only five hits. One of these was a triple by Tabor after Mike Kreevich had erred on a fly ball in the second inning, two runs tying what the Sox had done to Eldon Auker in the first round. Then Dietrich was nicked for three more hits in the fourth, among them Tabor's second triple, and two more runs blossomed. That's one more than the Chicagoans could register off Auker in the last eight innings.

FIRST GAME

Rookie Williams was responsible for the one run lead assumed by Boston in the second inning of the opening game. The Coast league graduate let go with a drive which bounced off the 440 foot center field wall for a triple. An infield out let him sneak home. The lead against Lyons was stretched to 2 and 0 in the fifth, which Taber opened with a single to left. He went to second on Desautels' bunt and rode across the plate on a single to center by Grove.

The fifth inning cluster of four runs, which looked promising to the Chicagoans for a few minutes, began to take form when Appling walked. Kreevich singled to center. Owen singled to right, Appling scoring and Kreevich taking third. Tresh thumped a single into center, Kreevich counting and Owen sliding safely into third. Tresh hiked down to second on the long throw in. Lyons singled and Owen scored, but Tresh fiddled around second so long that he had to stop at third. A pass to Bejma loaded the bases and Kuhel

KENNEALLY FACES HENRY WACKER IN MARIGOLD ARENA

Henry Wacker, hard hitting heavyweight of Taylorville, Ill., will go after his tenth victory in twelve starts in a ten round bout against Tom Kenneally of the Catholic Youth organization in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

After chalking up nine straight triumphs, eight by knockouts, Wacker lost a fierce battle to Tony Musto in the Coliseum March 3. Henry then scored an upset by holding Paul Hartnek to a draw in ten rounds in the same arena April 13.

However, Kenneally is expected to win because of a ten round defeat he handed Musto in White City last Dec. 16. Tom's backers point out that their protégé is a better boxer and possesses more speed than Wacker. In addition to superior hitting power, Wacker has an edge in stamina.

The supporting card includes a six round rematch between Dick Kist, Danville slugger, and Eddie Meleski, middleweight stablemate of Kenneally. In an earlier meeting Meleski knocked out Dick in the eighth round.

Bob Ray, Danville heavyweight; Joey Russano, Humboldt park featherweight, and Sam Scully, south side lightweight, appear in three preliminary contests of four rounds. Ray clashes with Gene Clark, Russano with Joe Ojida, and Scully with Eu Eulien.

Russano will be bidding for his twenty-ninth victory in a row against Ojida. Twenty-six of these triumphs were registered in the amateur field.

Stanley King, Al Capalby, and Mike Sopko will come from East Chicago to appear in three bouts featuring the amateur boxing show in Madison Athletic club Wednesday. Proceeds will go to a sanitarium in Winfield.

Mr. Wall-Eye Has Plenty of Angler Friends

BY BOB BECKER.

The wall-eyed pike or pike perch is the most popular of the fresh water game fish which live in the big Chippewa flowage not far from Hayward, Wis. The muskie and the black bass rate as better fighters, but when you take a poll among the fishermen on the flowage you find that most of them are after a string of pike.

This common species, widely distributed in lakes and streams of the vacation country, is such an accommodating fish, so easy to handle on a rod and so good to eat that it is the big favorite of anglers who frequent northern lakes.

When we were in the Chippewa flowage country a few days ago fishermen were checking in from miles around to take a whirl at the wall-eyes. They had all kinds of tackle, ranging from common cane poles to shiny five foot casting rods. But no matter what kind of tackle was used the boys didn't have much trouble in getting a string, for the flowage has a big pike population.

We had one evening on the Chippewa flowage, but weather and fishing conditions weren't right, and the pike didn't hit very enthusiastically. During the past few weeks many fishermen have been getting nice strings of good sized pike by casting wabbling, underwater plugs around sundown. The fish, found in five or six feet of water, swatted plugs without hesitation. But the night we fished we landed just one wall-eye on an artificial lure.

What the pike is to the Chippewa flowage the crappie is to Teal lake on highway 77 out of Hayward. A planting of crappies in this lake—which is stocked with pike, muskies, and bass—has developed an amazing number of these fish. Some of the crappies in Teal lake grow big enough to give fly rod fishermen a workout.

The three were on the third, trying for birdies from equidistant lengths of about 25 feet. Shute was the fortunate member of the trio, for his drive landed in the rough and he had to hit a fine second to gain the putting surface. None of them made his putt, going away with par 4s.

Shute Misses Chance for Birdie.

They reached the 453 yard fourth in regulation style and got down in two for their par fours, Shute missing the shortest birdie chance, a ten footer. Wood went into the lead on the 425 yard fifth. Shute skinned his drive through the rough just at the edge of the fairway, and then dropped his second in the spinach to the right of the green. Nelson and Wood joined Shute by pouring their seconds into opposite traps. Their recoveries were on, Shute dropping a 14 footer, Wood making a 12 foot try, and Nelson missing the shortest opportunity, from about 7 feet.

Wood went two up on Nelson and four up on Shute at the 447 yard sixth. Wood hit two really elegant shots to the green, the second dropping four feet from the pin for a birdie putt which he holed out. Nelson drove the left rough, and dropped a nice second on the green, but needed two putts.

Nelson Holes 15 Foot Putt.

From there in it was Nelson's turn to thrill the gallery. Off the high tee of the 191 yard seventh, Nelson and Shute used 5 irons, while Wood chose a No. 4 iron. Shute had the best apparent opportunity for a deuce, but missed a four and a half footer after Nelson dropped his from 15 feet and Wood had taken two from 30 feet, the latter stroking a bad approach putt nearly a yard to the right of the cup.

The three of them reached the 479 yard par four eighth in two, Wood being on 16 feet from the pin, while Nelson was 50 feet away and Shute more than 20 feet. Wood's approach putt, stroked under the stress of an airplane which decided to dip low and look at the match, was nearly a yard away, but he got it down after Shute and Nelson had holed for fours.

Nelson Catches Wood.

Nelson caught up to Wood at the 350 yard ninth, where he holed a tough 20 foot putt. Wood's 18 foot try for a half had to roll over a hump in the green and sped more than two feet past. Shute was having more difficulty in the meantime. His second found the left front bunker, and he needed two more after reaching the green. Nelson's birdie gave him a nine hole tie with Wood at thirty-three strokes, one under par and four under Shute's 37.

Wood was struck by his first bogey at the tenth, where he bunkered his second shot and then required two putts to get down from 30 feet. Nelson and Shute were on this green in straight shots. Shute and Wood drove the 169 yard eleventh, but Nelson turned up in a trap and took 3 to get down from there, leaving him even with Wood again.

Nelson squared this error by dropping a 10 foot putt for a birdie 3 on the 480 yard twelfth. Wood achieved a nice par here by exploding a trapped second within 5 feet and dropping the putt. Wood gained a shot back at the 206 yard thirteenth by holing a 4 footer for his par after escaping another bunker. Nelson, on the green, just 25 feet from the pin, took three putts, missing a 2 foot second effort. Shute also had a bogey.

Get Pars on Next Two.

They all took pars on the 394 yard fourteenth, and the 421 yard fifteenth. Nelson was bunkered in the right trap off this tee, but was out on the edge of the green and chipped up close enough for his par.

Nelson went into a one-shot lead on the 328 yard 16th dropping a six foot putt after having driven the trap at the right. Wood did likewise, except that he chose the left bunker and had to play out safe. He dropped a five footer eventually for his par. The New Yorker got that back and a lead on Nelson on the 17th by holing a fourteen foot side hill putt, while Nelson missed a hard putt of less than six feet.

Second Shot Hits Spectator.

Then came the 18th. Wood's second shot would have wandered considerably awry if it had not struck Mossman and ricocheted into the fairway short of the green. He chipped up about six feet past and missed the putt that would have given him the championship, after Nelson, also just off the edge in two, had chipped up seven feet from the cup and holed out for his birdie and the tie. Shute, at this hole, came very near tying Snead's eight of yesterday.

TWIN STAR SAILS TO CLOSE VICTORY IN RACE REGATTA

Twin Star, sailed by Lockwood M. Pirie, won the Jackson Park Yacht club's Star class regatta yesterday with a total of 24 points. Ted Mead's Little Audrey was second with 23, and Harry Nye Jr.'s Gale and the Moon-Smith syndicate Star Delight tied for fourth with 17.

The morning race was won by Gale in 54 minutes and 40 seconds. The course was six miles windward and leeward. Little Audrey was runner-up in 57:32, and Twin Star third in 58:46. The scheduled final race was called off and the regatta's scoring completed at the finish of the morning competition.

SHUTE'S FAILURE IN OPEN BARS DOOR TO P. G. A.

Denny Shute yesterday lost the one chance he had of playing in the annual P. G. A. golf tournament in Flushing, N. Y., July 10-15.

Tom Walsh, secretary of the Professional Golfers association, revealed Shute had to win the national open golf championship to make himself eligible for the P. G. A. event. Shute lost in the playoff to Byron Nelson and Craig Wood, who still are tied for the open title.

"Shute's entry for the P. G. A. meet reached our office two days late," Walsh explained. "This disqualified him, although as a Ryder cup member he was not even required to enter regional competition.

"The association is pretty strict about the regulations, so through his own oversight he was out of the P. G. A. meet unless he could win the national open. A place is always reserved for the open champion. Nothing was said before about Shute's failure to file his entry on time because we didn't want to put him on the spot before the open was played."

MILLS TO MEET HOUSE OF DAVID RIVALS TONIGHT

The Mills of the Tri-State league will play the House of David baseball team in the final of their three game series in Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen street, tonight. The teams divided a double-header last week. The game will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Tomorrow night the Mills will play Satchel Paige, Negro baseball's star pitcher, and his All-Star team on the same field. The game originally was scheduled for Friday, but was postponed because of rain.

Yesterday's games between the Mills and Bacharach Giants and the Spencer Coals and House of David were postponed because of rain.

Children's Mass.

I love to go to a Children's Mass
And watch the little faces,
As the boys and girls come streaming in
And quietly take their places.

Kneeling row on row,
What does the future hold for you—

Little girl in front of me
With your pig-tails quite askew,
Down what road will you make your way,
What pathways are marked for you?

Mayhap one day a famous star
In a thrilling Broadway play,
Perhaps somebody's gentle wife
In a cottage over the way.

Little boy with the hole in your sleeve,
What is ahead for you?
Tempest or sunshine, who shall say which,
Skies that are gray or blue?

Hurrying so you won't be late
For that seat in your favorite pew,
Maybe I'm seeing the nation's chief
As I glance up and look at you.

All of you kneeling at Children's Mass,
Quietly row on row,
A silent prayer, God guide your steps
Wherever all of you go.

FLIP FLAP OUT FOR 2D VICTORY AT LINCOLN FIELDS

Three Allowance Events on Program Today.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Lincoln Fields will begin the week with a program including three allowance events for horses of the claiming class. Meanwhile both sprinters and distance runners of stake caliber will be pointed for two $2,500 handicaps, the Calumet at six furlongs and the Marquette at a mile and an eighth, which will be run Saturday.

In one of today's events for which special conditions have been written Thomas Platt's Flip Flap will try for his second victory of the meeting against five rivals, most of them of the $3,500 class. The race will be at a mile and a sixteenth.

Two Races at Six Furlongs.

The other two special events are at six furlongs. One of them will bring out a long shot winner, Decourcy, which scored at 26 to 1 odds last week, and Star Bud, which came home at better than 8 to 1 on Memorial day. The field for the other will include the Calumet Farm's Greeny, E. F. Bennett's Delta Dan, and performers of similar class.

During the last week William Maloney's Her Reigh joined the roster of Lincoln Fields stake winners by sloshing home first in the La Salle handicap Saturday under the worst conditions of the meeting, a violent storm having struck the course shortly before post time.

Hanke Leads Jockeys.

M'Guires Turn Horse Ring Into a Family Circle

Earlier in the afternoon Frances McGuire had captured the women's five gaited and Julia the women's three gaited saddle classes, while their brother, Walter McGuire, won the novice equitation event for children under 13 years of age.

The other championship went to Denison B. Hull's Frosty Morning, ridden by Mrs. Kimball Salisbury and judged the show's best hunter or jumper. Also prominent among the winners was Nancy Miller, who rode her Apple Jack to a first for hunters or jumpers in the South Shore challenge cup class. Summaries:

GIANTS DEFEAT PIRATES TWICE FOR FIFTH IN ROW

Take First Game, 7 to 3; Win Second, 5 to 4.

New York, June 11.—(AP)—A double-header victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7 to 3 and 5 to 4, increased the New Giants string of victories to five today and the Pirates' row of defeats to the same number.

Billy Jurges' homer with one on was the nub of a five run flurry by the Giants in the second inning of the first game and Harry Gumbert protected his lead carefully to chalk up his seventh triumph. A home run by Alex Kampouris off Bob Klinger in the eighth inning decided the second game. Score:

White Sox Beat Boston, 7 to 5; Then Lose, 4-3

All that Lyons needed to emerge safely from the sixth was one out. He didn't get it in time. Vosmik walked and Foxx singled to left. Infield popups disposed of both Williams and Cronin. Then Tabor selected Lyons' first pitch for deposit in the left field pavilion, accounting for three runs and putting the Bostons ahead by 5 to 4.

The tying run scored by the White Sox in the eighth was about half of what they should have captured. Kuhel led off with a two bagger to right center and went to third on a bunt which Walker beat out. Radcliff fouled to Foxx. Appling bounced a single past Cronin, Kuhel scoring and Walker going to third. Kreevich laid down a perfect squeeze bunt, but apparently Walker was detained en route. By the time he arrived at the plate Foxx's throw was in Desautels' hands. Owen flied to Williams for the third out. Then Lyons breezed through the ninth on a yield of one hit, and it wasn't long thereafter before Kuhel's decisive homer was unveiled.

SECOND GAME

The White Sox would have opened the second game with three runs instead of two if Umpire Rue hadn't been guessing at the plate. After two were out Walker singled to center and scored on Radcliff's triple to right center. Appling walked. Kreevich dumped a two bagger in short right. Radcliff scoring and Appling trying to do the same. It looked as if Appling's foot had touched the plate before Peacock turned to tag him, but Rue didn't see it that way.

The Red Sox didn't get their first hit off Dietrich until the second inning, but it was good enough for the two tying runs. To open the inning Williams lofted to center and Kreevich let the ball trickle through his hands for a two base error. Cronin was thrown out easily, but Tabor tagged a triple into right center and Williams sauntered home. Tabor scored while Appling was throwing out Peacock.

Boston started to move into the lead in the fourth, when Foxx tripled to the right center field wall. Williams popped to Bejma and Cronin hoisted a foul behind the plate, but the wind blew it beyond Silvestri's reach. Cronin's appreciation of this was expressed with a single on which Foxx scored. Then Tabor tripled for the second time and Cronin went home.

The White Sox collected only one run in the seventh, although the first two batters got on. Kreevich opened with a bounding double down the left field line and a moment later was driven in by McNair's single to center. McNair went to second on the throw to the plate, but Silvestri filed to Vosmik. Steinbacher, batting for Dietrich, lofted to Williams, and Bejma was tossed out by Tabor.

The only Chicago delegate to reach base after the seventh was Appling, who walked to start the ninth.

NEW MICHIGAN AVENUE SEWER READY AUG. 15

First Modern Downtown Unit Being Rushed.

The first link in a modern sewer system for downtown Chicago will be put in service Aug. 15, city officials said yesterday. It is a new Michigan avenue sewer from the Chicago river to Jackson boulevard. It will serve the area between State street and Grant park.

The project was started last year. A control chamber connecting the new sewer with a sanitary district intercepting sewer under the south bank of the river is being built east of the Michigan avenue bridge. Storm wastes will be carried off into the river through an overflow outlet.

Find Relics of Old Buildings.

Reminders of Chicago's past came to light during the construction, engineers revealed. Workmen driving a tunnel under the north bound trafic lane of Michigan avenue from Lake street to Washington street found the way blocked by the substructures of old buildings which lined the thoroughfare before it was widened a generation ago.

When the property was condemned for street widening purposes the buildings were torn down. But many foundations were left intact. Tunnel crews had to resort to acetylene torches and dynamite to cut their way through abandoned boilers, thick steel rods, and slabs of stone.

Fire Ruins Come to Light.

Boring of the tunnel also was retarded by masses of melted iron unearthed by the workmen. Distinguishable were door handles, hinges, hasps, tools, axes, etc. Apparently these were remains from the Chicago fire of 1871 dumped along the old lake shore as the city began rebuilding.

Another complication developed when the crews started tunneling under the plaza at the eastern end of Wacker drive. The Michigan Central railroad immediately demanded that work be stopped, asserting that it has sole underground rights to the property in which the control chamber is being built.

The rights were bestowed, surprised engineers found, in a forgotten section of the 1929 amendment to the lake front development ordinance. A temporary agreement with railroad officials permitting continuation of the project was reached after lengthy negotiations.

Draft New Amendment.

A new amendment to the ordinance is being drafted to cover the situation. After it has been approved by Michigan Central officials it will be submitted to the city council.

The sewer ranges in size from 7 to 4 feet. With its branches it will be approximately 5,500 feet long. It will be connected with the existing Michigan avenue sewer at Washington and Monroe streets and Jackson boulevard. Work relief labor was employed on the project under the supervision of the board of local improvements.

Later the sewer system west of State street will be reorganized, according to A. J. Schafmayer, engineer for the improvement board.

Engineers for many years have recognized the need for installing a waste disposal system under Chicago to meet the needs of a modern industrial center. The present system was designed and built between 1855 and 1860 when there were no tall buildings.

SURVEY SHOWS MACHINE AGE ON ILLINOIS FARMS

Urbana, Ill., June 11.—[Special.]—Changes in the use of labor and machinery on Illinois farms in the last fifteen years are reviewed in a study just completed by the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois. Along with the shift from horses to tractors there has been a rapid increase in the use of machinery such as combines, corn pickers, and pickup balers and in motor cultivators for row crops.

The number of work horses per farm in central Illinois has been reduced 50 per cent, the number of hours worked per horse has declined 40 per cent.

The number of hours of labor by men for each farm declined 30 per cent.

Recover Body of Chicago Woman from River in Iowa

Ottumwa, Ia., June 11.—(AP)—The body of Mrs. Yvonne Park, 25 years old, of Chicago, was recovered today from the Des Moines river here. The woman, visiting her mother, Mrs. Mae Niles, had been missing since last night.

CAPT. JOHN SMUTS, 66, HUSBAND OF LATE MAY YOHE, DIES IN BOSTON

Boston, Mass., June 11.—(AP)—Capt. John Smuts, 66 years old, husband of the late May Yohe, who at one time owned the renowned but luckless Hope diamond, and nephew of the famed British South African general, Jan C. Smuts, died suddenly today of a heart attack.

A veteran of the Boer and world wars, Capt. Smuts had lived in virtual obscurity since scattering the ashes of his actress wife upon the Atlantic ocean last Sept. 3 in accordance with her dying wish. Capt. Smuts and May Yohe, who was remembered as a favorite of British royalty, were dogged by ill luck, which, according to legend, comes to those who have owned the Hope diamond.

After a vaudeville tour in 1922, a California ranch venture failed to provide the livelihood for which they hoped. Another vaudeville tour provided scant returns, which the couple lost in a farming enterprise in New Hampshire. After that the former stage beauty took a job on a Works Progress administration sewing project here.

Tasmanian Premier Drops Dead While Playing Golf

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 11.—(AP)—Albert George Ogilvie, Labor premier of Tasmania, died of heart failure today while playing golf at Warburton, Victoria. He was 48 years old. Ogilvie was elected a member of parliament on a Labor ticket for the first time in 1919 and had held his seat continuously since. He became premier in 1934. He led Tasmania's Labor party from 1929.

SWIMS TO DEATH AS PALS YELL HE CAN WADE ASHORE

Failure to hear shouted assurances of his friends led to the death yesterday of Louis Fettro, 25 years old, 9215 Harper avenue, a wine steward at the Palmer House.

He was out on Wolf lake, 126th street and Avenue O, in an outboard motorboat with John Davidson, 25, of 830 East 88th street, and Robert Reger, 24, of 3315 North Springfield avenue, when the motor failed. The boat was 200 feet offshore.

Fettro dived into the water to swim to shore to summon help. Davidson and Reger also went overboard. They quickly discovered that the water was only slightly above their waists. They called to Fettrio to wade and not to swim. He failed to hear them and swam on. He sank soon afterward. His body was recovered by Lieut. Tom Ryan of the East Side station.

'ASSESSOR WARNS OF PLOT TO DUPE OWNERS OF LAND

Assessor John S. Clark charged yesterday that a group of men are duping taxpayers by trying to cash in on reduced land values now being made in the 1939 quadrennial assessment. He warned taxpayers not to pay a fee to any one claiming the ability to obtain a reduction.

"Land values in certain sections of the city will be lower for the 1939 quadrennial," said Clark. "These chiselers either got wind of the fact or are taking a chance. When the reduced values are announced they will step in and claim the credit for obtaining them.

"All reductions in land values under the quadrennial assessment are due to investigations of the assessing staff from an economic point of view. The board of appeals will not hear complaints on the assessment until next year."

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

PREDICT WHEAT CROP LESS THAN DOMESTIC NEED

But Big Carryover Augments Supply.

For the fifth time in the last seven years the United States is expected to harvest a wheat crop less than is needed to meet domestic requirements. This is indicated by the department of agriculture's June 1 estimate, which indicated a yield of about 680,000,000 bushels. The actual domestic disappearance of wheat in the preceding two years was slightly in excess of 700,000,000 bushels.

The relatively small production this year, which is about 250,000,000 bushels less than the harvest of 1938, causes little concern to the grain trade and the public. This is said to result from the prospect that about 275,000,000 bushels of wheat will be carried over into the 1939-'40 season from preceding crops.

Other Small Crops Forecast.

For four successive years from 1933 to 1936 the United States harvested less wheat than domestic requirements, which resulted in millions of bushels of Canadian grain being imported. Although the spring wheat area in the American and Canadian northwest has received good rains in the last two weeks the trade is apprehensive as to the effect that hot and dry weather normally experienced in July will have on the crop. There is a lack of subsoil reserve moisture over a large area.

The oats, rye and barley crops, based on June 1 conditions, are expected to be relatively light, although considerably in excess of the record low production in 1933 and 1934. In those two years the three grains were imported in large quantities for the first time in the history of the country. Canada, Europe and South America were called upon to make good the deficiency.

Of all the major grains corn is the only one that may turn out to be a good crop.

Revamp Trade Group Staff in Chicago Drive

A. H. Mellinger, on new committee.

The Chicago Association of Commerce has taken steps toward complete reorganization of its departments and committes and enlargement of its staff in connection with the "Greater Chicago" campaign.

Oscar G. Mayer, president of the association, announced the action yesterday in a statement in which he said the association is confident of the ultimate success of the campaign, because of the strong backing it already has received from business leaders.

The association is pushing a drive to raise $625,000 to finance the "Greater Chicago" campaign, the object of which is to get the city's industries moving forward.

Committee to Plan Work.

Mayer announced that he has appointed an organization committee of business executives to take charge of planning the work of citizen groups which will be mobilized to carry out the objectives of the campaign.

Mayer will be the chairman of the organization committee. The following will assist him:

Donald M. Nelson, general chairman of the "Greater Chicago" campaign; Harvey G. Eller, vice president of Armour & Co.; Fred D. Fagg Jr., dean of the school of commerce of Northwestern university; Thomas S Hammond, president of the Whiting corporation; Frank A. Hecht, retired business executive; William J. Kelly, president of Arthur J. O'Leary & Son company.

Others Also Named.

A. H. Mellinger, president of the Illinois Bell Telephone company; Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, and Guy E. Reed, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank.

A number of new committees and departments will be established in the reorganization of the association, and others will be consolidated. A program of coöperation with other Chicago organizations working toward the "Greater Chicago" campaign objectives will be drafted, Mayer said.

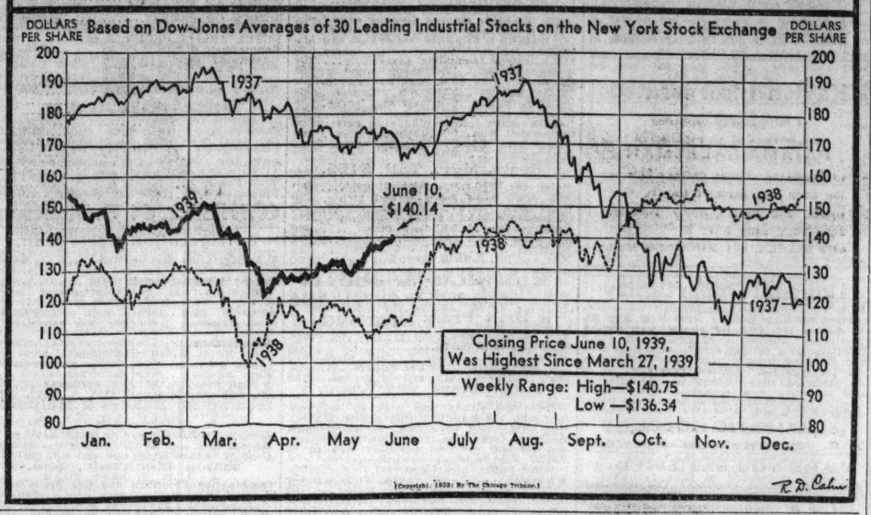
STEEL OUTPUT LIKELY TO SHOW LITTLE CHANGE

Steel ingot production has extended its recent gains to 53.5 per cent of capacity, but subsequent increases this month are likely to be small, the magazine Steel reported yesterday. Some districts plan unchanged schedules at least until after July 4.

Operations will be retarded for a number of weeks, the publication said, by light consumption in the automotive industry. Until the model changeover period has been bridged other steel consumers must provide the principal support to production.

Leading scrap markets are more active, demand being stimulated by recent gains in steelmaking. Higher prices accompany improved buying, and increases at Chicago, Pittsburgh, and Philadelphia have moved Steel's scrap composite price 62 cents a ton higher to $14.62 a ton. This is the highest in nine weeks.

Average Daily Closing Prices of 30 Industrial Stocks



Investors' Guide

Monday, June 12, 1939.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

STOCK ISSUER'S LIABILITY.

Investors' Guide: I read recently that a New York judge entered a verdict against officers and directors of the Austin Silver Mining company of Nevada. What was the decision about? I own some of the company's stock.—H. K.

Answer: The decision of Justice Edgar J. Lauer of the New York Supreme court last May 25 was the first of its kind in that state. The court's order in effect holds any participant in the registration of a security offering with the Securities and Exchange commission responsible for a decline in the value of a purchaser's holdings if the registration statement was misleading.

Four stockholders of the company alleged in their suit that they bought 6,000 shares of the company's $1 par common stock at an average price of $1.50 a share. They said the value of the stock fell to about 35 cents a share when the suit was filed.

The plaintiffs contended that the registration statement filed by the company in 1937 covering an offering of 225,000 shares omitted material facts and was misleading. Therefore, they asked a judgement for $9,851 for the depreciation in the value of their holdings.

Justice Lauer ruled that certain officers and directors of the mining company and of the underwriting firms were liable for misleading the purchasers of the stock through the registration statement.

Klopstock & Co., the underwriter, had made commitments and granted options on the offered stocks before the registration became effective March 22, 1937, but these material facts were not contained in the statement, the court said.

The defendants argued that the options and commitments could have been filled from previously outstanding stock. Justice Lauer ruled that the commitments were met actually from the new issue.

"In my opinion," the court said, "the language of the act [federal securities law of 1933] requiring information in connection with the issue covered by this registration is broad enough to require a disclosure of options or commitments outstanding by the issuer or underwriter. Otherwise these options could be, as they were in this case, filled from the new issue of stock to the disadvantage and injury to subscribers to the new issue.

"The very purpose of the securities act was to safeguard the investing public from fraudulent devices and tricks in the sale of securities."

Justice Lauer awarded the plaintiffs a judgment for the difference between the amount they paid for their shares and their value when the suit was filed.

The SEC suspended the company's original registration last July. In its order it found that the underwriter had made commitments to deliver 11,000 shares at prices below those offered to the public at the time the registration became effective. The commission considered the omission of this fact doubly serious because 3,500 shares were to be delivered to officers and directors of the company.

4 N. Y. HOUSING BILLS APPROVED BY GOV. LEHMAN

Albany, N. Y., June 11.—[Special.]—Gov. Herbert Lehman today signed four bills implementing the new constitution and starting the state on a $150,000,000 low rent housing and slum clearance program.

The new laws authorize the state to enter into agreements for loans to municipalities or authorities not exceeding $150,000,000, of which not more than $50,000,000 may be actually lent during the next fiscal year.

They also empower the state to enter into agreements for subsidies not exceeding $1,000,000 a year, of which not more than $250,000 may be expended during the coming fiscal year. These subsidies are loans the state will make to housing authorities and localities.

LUMBER ORDERS IN WEEK 42 PCT. ABOVE YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., June 11.—(AP)—The National Lumber Manufacturers' association reported tonight new orders during the week ended June 3 were 42 per cent larger than in the corresponding week a year ago and were about the same as in the preceding week.

Set National Income in 1938 at 64 Billions

Washington, D. C., June 11.—(AP)—After rising steadily for five years, the national income of the United States declined to $64,000,000,000 in 1938, a drop of 11 per cent from the $72,000,000,000 figure attained in 1937.

The department of commerce, in announcing the figures today, said the reduction was due to "declining prices as well as a reduced volume of production."

[The National Industrial Conference board, research organization supported largely by private business corporations, issued on Saturday an estimate that the national income in 1938 was $62,500,000,000, against $69,400,000,000 in 1937. As explained below, the government has changed the basis of its figures and this largely accounts for the difference in the two estimates.]

Far Below Roosevelt Goal.

The $64,000,000,000 total is $16,000,000,000 below the $80,000,000,000 figure that President Roosevelt has set as the annual income goal of his administration.

The department announced that it had revised upward the national income totals for all of the years covered by the report, on the basis of a new census and other data.

"Thus, early figures placed the national income for 1929 at $81,000,000,000, and the 1937 total at $70,000,000,000," the report said.

1929 Total Boosted.

"Revisions now incorporated in the report have raised the 1929 total to $82,700,000,000 and the 1937 figure to approximately $72,000,000,000."

The analysis for 1938 disclosed a sharp drop in income in the first five months followed by a marked recovery during the remainder of the year.

Total compensation paid to employés was 7 per cent lower in 1938 than in 1937, although the share of income distributed to employés in 1938 stood at a new high of 67.3 per cent of aggregate income paid out in all forms.

Illinois Coal Mining Costs Set at $1.76

Washington, D. C., June 11.—(AP)—The bituminous coal commission decided today the average cost of producing a ton of coal in western Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa was $1.76.

The commission said the four state district produces about 18 per cent of the nation's soft coal tonnage.

Prices for the district, the commission said, probably will be announced later this month, subject to final hearings on statistical data. "The new prices for different grades of coal," the commission said, "will vary greatly, depending upon their relative values as to kind, grade, and size.

"The law requires that the prices bring into each district a total amount of money which, when divided by the number of tons the district has sold, will show an average yield per ton approximating the area's cost of production."

Production costs in the four fields comprising the middle western price area 2, the commission said, were: Western Kentucky, $1.58 a ton; Illinois, $1.756; Indiana, $1.652, and Iowa, $2,763.

CHINA TELLS AIM TO CUT TRADE IN NONESSENTIALS

CHUNGKING, China, June 11.—(AP)—The Chinese finance ministry has approved measures of the Chinese-British currency control commission which on Wednesday caused the Chinese national dollar to decline to its lowest level of modern times, it was learned today.

The ministry issued a statement stressing its determination to continue permitting foreign exchange for necessities but to discourage imports of nonessentials.

It was explained that the current seasonal trade fluctuation resulting from excess imports, especially of nonessentials, necessitated readjustment of the dollar rate to restore trade equilibrium.

[Uncertainty arose in financial circles at Shanghai Wednesday when the Chinese dollar dropped to 1⅛ 1-8 cents, American equivalent, as compared with 16 1-8 cents the day before. At that time Chinese-British banks controling the $46,800,000 Chinese-British currency stabilization fund refused grants for purchases of foreign exchange.]

SHIPPING SUBSIDY TO HELP LUMBER EXPORTS SOUGHT

Washington, D. C., June 11.—[Special.]—A move to stimulate lagging exports of United States lumber, which in 1938 reached the lowest level in forty years, has been made by Senators McNary and Holman of Oregon, who have introduced a bill in the senate with this end in view.

The Holman-McNary bill proposes to provide competitive shipping rates and adequate shipping services to lumber and manufactured timber products exported from the United States.

The bill would direct the maritime commission to grant subsidies to shipping operators to provide export rates as low as those of principal foreign competitors. It also would authorize the commission to lease vessels and allocate space, or to operate vessels.

The National Lumber Manufacturers' association asserted in a statement supporting the bill that the advantage of foreign competitors in the export trade, in shipping alone, from subsidized rates or subsidized cargoes or both, ranges between $1 and $2 per thousand board feet.

SLOAN REPORTS RECENT LAG IN SALES OF CARS

But Doubts Drastic Dip in Business.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the General Motors corporation, said in a statement mailed to stockholders yesterday that automobile sales to consumers have failed to show a "full seasonal improvement" since March. However, in commenting on business as a whole he said "there does not appear to be economic justification for any drastic decline" unless sentiment is influenced adversely by a new foreign crisis.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr.

He said in a message accompanying a previously announced dividend distribution of 75 cents a share that the judgment on the business outlook was a repetition of that expressed in April, when he told shareholders there had been a slowly sagging trend for several months in the business curve.

The 75 cent dividend accompanying the statement compared with 25 cents a share paid in June last year. It increases to $1.50 a share the amount paid in the first six months of 1939. In the first half of 1938 a total of 50 cents a share was paid.
